John D. Rockefeller, 86 years old yesterday, played his usual round of golf, quite content with 43 for nine holes, and with his milk and seltzer, toast and perhaps two ounces of meat.

It is hard for some to realize that golf, exercise that anybody can take with a stick and a round pebble, not more than 20 cents' worth of food a day and a bed to sleep in are all that Mr. Rockefeller gets from his great fortune.

Alexander the Great, rebuking complaining generals that wanted to go home, held up his imperial purple cloak and said, "I have made you all rich. This is all I have got from my work." John D. Rockefeller hasn't got even a purple cloak.

What will history say of John D. Rockefeller, whose work and success better than that of any other man, with the possible exception of Henry Ford, typifies this industrial age?

He will be praised for the good example that he has set for other rich men, giving literally hundreds of millions to education, science and public health and other millions, not nearly as many, to religion.

And, he will be praised because he has never set a bad example of ostentation and extravagance to embezzle the poor.

There will be talk of his vast fortune, the extent of which he knows little, most of which he probably gave long ago to his son to be rid of the nuisance. The Rockefellers have untold millions stored under the ground. They can't know how many.

All that has been mentioned except the contributions to knowledge will be forgotten in 500 years. But 1,000 years hence, historians will still carry the picture of John D. Rockefeller and will say of him: "This is the man who proved competition to be wasteful and unnecessary."

"This man, providing that one man could successfully manage and own an industry, laid the foundation of ownership by the people. They at last discovered that what one man could do the people could do for themselves."

William G. McAdoo is asked to run for senator in California on the Democratic ticket against Senator Shortridge, Republican. The campaign will come next year.

One thing is certain, if McAdoo should go into the fight and get elected, California and the rest of the country would know he was in the senate and California would have a first-class advertising agent at Washington.

CHILD'S SCALP TORN BY DOG

Robert, 2, Son of William S. Story Seriously Injured.

William S. Story, clerk at the J. C. Penney company store, has returned from Valley City, North Dakota, where he was called by the serious condition of his two-year-old son, Robert, who was bitten by a dog last week.

Mrs. Story and her child had been spending the summer with relatives at Valley City. The child was playing with a large shepherd dog when the animal bit him on the head, its teeth tearing open the boy's scalp.

The child was taken to the hospital where the wound was cauterized and sewed. Twenty-two stitches were required to close the gash. The child is now on the road to recovery.

CONDITION GRAVE

Accident Occurs at Neighbor's Home in Wellsville.

Little Icy Stalling, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stalling of 1907 Chester avenue, Wellsville, is in a critical condition in the City hospital today, fighting with all her tiny strength to retain the spark of life which threatens to die away entirely as a result of a seven-foot fall from a second story veranda yesterday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock.

The child toppled over backward from the porch while playing with several other youngsters and the back of her head struck the pavement beneath. Her skull was fractured.

Dr. H. D. Beaumont, who was summoned immediately, rushed the child to the hospital here and within a short time after their arrival performed an operation on the baby's skull—the one chance, he said, to keep the tiny patient alive. Dr. C. H. Bailey and Dr. J. W. Chetwynd assisted in the operation.

Hospital authorities at noon today announced that signs of a slight improvement in the child's condition were visible.

The little girl, it is said, was playing on the porch of the residence adjoining her own home, and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Holliday. The porch had no railing.

WOMAN INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Mrs. Harry Reed, Vine street, is recovering from injuries suffered last Saturday afternoon in an automobile collision near Northeast, Pa., as they were enroute to Niagara Falls.

Drivers of the two machines responsible for the crash were arrested by Northeast officials and released under $1,000 bond pending an investigation.

American Urges Parley

BY DAVID M. CHURCH.

LONDON, July 9.—The United States wishes to bring no pressure for an immediate conference seeking abolition of extra-territorial rights in China.

Nor is the United States worried over the fact that Great Britain and Japan are exchanging notes over policy in China.

These were the principal points made in a statement issued at the American embassy today. At the same time, it was understood that William Perkins, representative of the state department at present in London, was satisfied with the British policy and saw no possibility of Great Britain differing with the United States regarding the rights of the powers in China.

Perkins refused to talk, but his views were understood to be reflected in the amiable statement of the embassy.

Willing to Wait.
The American representations, urging a conference to discuss extra-territoriality as provided in the Washington agreements, have been made through usual diplomatic channels, but no note has been presented, it was stated at the embassy.

The United States is not insisting on an immediate conference, but is willing to wait for a more suitable time, it was stated.

Police say that young McCracken not only admitted he robbed the Green grocery, Tuesday night, but also confessed he entered the Kerr Lumber company garage, last Saturday night, and broke into an automobile painting establishment on Pennsylvania avenue, near Boyce street, about a week ago.

Young McCracken's arrest followed his attempt yesterday afternoon to cash a check, alleged to have been taken from the Green grocery, at the Federal Savings & Loan, East End. A. L. DAYTON, Tenn., July 9. — The "legal battle of the century" with its epochal effect on Christianity, science and public education, will be fought out on constitutional grounds under a defense program completed today by local counsel for John Thomas Scopes, defendant in Tennessee's anti-evolution test case.

As strong legal re-enforcements are rushing here from the North a final touch will be given the battle plan after the arrival this afternoon of Clarence Darrow, Dudley Field Malone and Arthur Garfield Hayes, the associated counsel.

Plans for Defense.
Its heavy artillery, however, will attack the law as unconstitutional on the ground that it fails to "cherish science" and denies the "freedom of thought, worship and conscience," as guaranteed in the state and federal constitutions.

In its present form, the plan includes three steps:

1—A motion to quash the indictment of Scopes on constitutional grounds.

2—A trial defense on the contention that evolution does not conflict with the Divine creation of man, thus nullifying the law and.

3—An appeal through the state supreme court to the United States supreme court on constitutional grounds if the motion is denied or Scopes convicted by a jury.

DAYTON, TENN., READY FOR "BATTLE OF CENTURY," TO TEST BAN ON EVOLUTION; FIGHT GREW OUT OF COUNTRY DRUG STORE ARGUMENT

(Editor's note—The Scopes anti-evolution trial opens in Dayton, Tenn., tomorrow. In the following article the history of the case is traced.)

BY WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

DAYTON, Tenn., July 9.—A chance argument in a country drug store developed into the "battle of the century," which opens here tomorrow when John Thomas Scopes, a 24-year-old high school instructor, goes on trial for alleged violation of Tennessee's anti-evolution law.

Out of that careless debate and the admitted desire of George W. Rappapley, a young civil engineer and one of the debaters, to "put Dayton on the map," there has grown a national issue. Before it is finally decided ed the United States supreme court may lay down for future generations a legal guarantee of educational freedom to rank alongside the constitutional guarantee of religious liberty and the emancipation proclamation of Abraham Lincoln.

Four young men, one of them Scopes, participated in that far-reaching drug store argument. It was he who started it by commencing on the newly enacted anti-evolution law, just passed by the Tennessee legislature. The law forbade any teacher to "teach any theory that denies the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible."

Biology Book Basis.
"I don't see how any man can teach biology without violating that law," said young Scopes. "I don't see how I can teach from Hunter's 'Civie Biology' without bringing in evolution."

To prove his point, Scopes got a copy of the book and read to his companions the following passage:

"Geology teaches that millions of years ago life upon the earth was very simple and that more and more complex forms of life appeared in time."

"The great English scientist, Charles Darwin, from this and other evidence, explained the theory of evolution. This is the belief that simple forms of life on the earth slowly and gradually gave rise to those more complex and that thus ultimately the most complex forms came into existence."

When Scopes finished, his friend, Dr. Rappapley, arose to say:

"Any man teaching from that book is guilty of violating the law. Why, Scopes, you're violating the law, and we ought to make a test out of this thing to show the law is unconstitutional."

The other two debaters—Wallace C. Haggard and Sue K. Hicks, young lawyers—said the same thing. "And we'll help to prosecute you," they added.

Thus was born the Scopes trial and the test of Tennessee's Anti-Evolution law. Rappapley swore out a warrant; young Scopes was arrested and released on his own recognizance to await a preliminary magistrate's hearing. He obtained the services of Judge John L. Godsey, a Dayton lawyer, to represent him.

Famous Lawyers Engaged.

At the preliminary hearing Scopes was bound over for the grand jury under $1,000 bond. His friend, Rappapley was the plaintiff, and his other two friends, Haggard and Hicks, had prosecuted him. They all thought it was good fun.

In the meantime, the little fire ignited in the village courtroom had spread across America. William Jennings Bryan, one of the nation's leading fundamentalists as well as a thrice leader of the Democratic party, came to Memphis and, in a speech, upheld the anti-evolution law, while offering his services to the state in the prosecution.

ution of the Scopes case. His offer was accepted.

This spurred the defense. Rappapley, although the technical prosecutor, was the champion of the defense. He immediately sought additional legal aid for his friend. His problem was solved when Clarence Darrow, the great Chicago criminal lawyer, and Dudley Field Malone, of New York and Paris, volunteered their services and were welcomed into the defense fold. Some time later, Balmford Colby, former Secretary of State and a constitutional lawyer was added to the defense array, but yesterday he announced his withdrawal. And then Ben G. Mackenzie, attorney general of Tennessee, took charge of the prosecution.

Scopes Believes in Bible.

In the meantime, a move was launched in Chattanooga to initiate a test case there, because "Dayton was too small to hold the crowds certain to be attracted."

That aroused Dayton's civic pride to fever heat. Resolutions were adopted at a town meeting denouncing Chattanooga's citizenry. Fearful that Chattanooga might yet be stolen, Dayton

Out of that careless debate and the admitted desire of George W. Rappleyea, a young civil engineer and one of the debaters, to "put Dayton on the map," there has grown a national issue. Before it is finally decided

ed the United States supreme court may lay down for future generations a legal guarantee of educational freedom to rank alongside the constitutional guarantee of religious liberty and the emancipation proclamation of Abraham Lincoln.

Four young men, one of them Scopes, participated in that far-reaching drug store argument. It was he who started it by commenting on the newly enacted anti-evolution law, just passed by the Tennessee legislature.

The law forbade any teacher to "teach any theory that denies the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible."

Biology Book Basis.

"I don't see how any man can teach biology without violating that law," said young Scopes. "I don't see how I can teach from Hunter's 'Civic Biology' without bringing in evolution."

To prove his point, Scopes got a copy of the book and read to his companions the following passage:

"Geology teaches that millions of years ago life upon the earth was very simple and that more and more complex forms of life appeared in time."

"The great English scientist, Charles Darwin, from this and other evidence, explained the theory of evolution. This is the belief that simple forms of life on the earth slowly and gradually gave rise to those more complex and that thus ultimately the most complex forms came into existence."

When Scopes finished, his friend, Dr. Rappleyea, arose to say:

"Any man teaching from that book is guilty of violating the law. Why, Scopes, you're violating the law, and we ought to make a test out of this thing to show the law is unconstitutional."

The other two debaters—Wallace C. Haggard and Sue K. Hicks, young lawyers—said the same thing. "And we'll help to prosecute you," they added.

Thus was born the Scopes trial and the test of Tennessee's Anti-Evolution law. Rappleyea swore out a warrant; young Scopes was arrested and released on his own recognizance to await a preliminary magistrate's hearing. He obtained the services of Judge John L. Godsey, a Dayton lawyer, to represent him.

Famous Lawyers Engaged.

At the preliminary hearing Scopes was bound over for the grand jury under $1,000 bond. His friend, Rappleyea was the plaintiff, and his other two friends, Haggard and Hicks, had prosecuted him. They all thought it was good fun.

In the meantime, the little fire ignited in the village courtroom had spread across America. William Jennings Bryan, one of the nation's leading fundamentalists as well as a thrice leader of the Democratic party, came to Memphis and, in a speech, upheld the anti-evolution law, while offering his services to the state in the prosecution.

cution of the Scopes case. His offer was accepted.

This spurred the defense, Rappleyea, although the technical prosecutor, was the champion of the defense. He immediately sought additional legal aid for his friend. His problem was solved when Clarence Darrow, the great Chicago criminal lawyer, and Dudley Field Malone, of New York and Paris, volunteered their services and were welcomed into the defense fold. Some time later, Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State and a constitutional lawyer was added to the defense array, but yesterday he announced his withdrawal. And then Ben G. Mackenzie, attorney general of Tennessee, took charge of the prosecution.

Scopes Believes in Bible.

In the meantime, a move was launched in Chattanooga to initiate a test case there, because "Dayton was too small to hold the crowds certain to be attracted."

This aroused Dayton's civic pride to fever heat. Resolutions were adopted at a town meeting denouncing Chattanooga's citizenry. Fearful that the limelight might yet be stolen, Dayton

SAFETY DRIVE IS LAUNCHED

Motor Club Co-operates With Sheriff in Testing Brakes.

In a campaign to establish greater safety on the highways, testing of automobile headlights and brakes began throughout Columbiana county today, as a result of a program sponsored by the Columbiana County Motor club, co-operating with the sheriff's office.

Faulty brakes and improperly focused headlights which blind drivers of cars, approaching from opposite directions, are responsible for a large percentage of automobile accidents. The necessary adjustments may be made without charge at any garage before the car is submitted for an official test.

The tests will be made at the ten official A. A. A. service stations in Columbiana county. These garages are: McElravy Brothers, East Liverpool; Standard, Wellsville; Salineville Motor company, Salineville; London, Hanoverton; Crubshaw, Lisbon; Columbia, Leetonia; Studebaker, Columbiana; Horton & Labor, East Palestine; Square Deal, Salem, and Singel, Damascus.

In East Liverpool, McElravy Brothers are being assisted by the Harris Buick company, the Ohio Motor Sales company, Ceramic Motor company, Doak and Labor, East End; Columbia and Lincoln garages.

Certificates will be issued for each car which meets the requirements. Cars not conforming with the state law regarding headlights and brakes, will subject the operator to a fine of $25 for the first offense.

enforcements, Dayton was agog with excitement. The eve of the trial found hundreds of visitors pouring into the city from all directions, with newspapermen and photographers in the van. All industry virtually was suspended except the feverish activity to complete preparations for the trial.

The prosecution, headed by William Jennings Bryan, marked time waiting the call to the courtroom. They announced their willingness to meet the defendants of Scopes on constitutional grounds but asserted the case involved a broader issue of defending Christianity against the assaults of science.

The first defense move, a motion to quash the indictment, it was learned, will be based entirely on constitutional questions. The motion, already drawn by local counsel, alleges the law has violated six distinct sections of the Tennessee Constitution and three amendments to the federal constitution.

Defense's "Big Guns."

A technical error in the law also has been attacked. This slip, which refers to "the theory of evolution" in the title and to "any theory of evolution" in the text, it is contended, violates the state constitutional provision that "no bill shall become a law which embraces more than one subject, that subject to be expressed in the title."

The "big guns" in the defense artillery will be allegations that the law violates the following provisions of the Tennessee constitution.

1—Section 12, article 2: "It shall be the duty of the general assembly in all future periods of this government to cherish literature and science."

2—Section 3, article 1: "That all men have a natural and inalienable right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own conscience; that no human authority can in any case whatever control or interfere with the rights of conscience; and that no preference shall ever be given by law to any religious establishment or mode of worship."

3—Section 19, article 1: "The free communication of thoughts and opinions is one of the invaluable rights of man, and every citizen may freely speak, write and print on any subject being responsible for the abuse of that liberty."

4—Section 8, article 1: "No man shall be dissolved of his freedoms, liberties or privileges, or in any manner destroyed—of his property, but by the judgment of his peers and the law of the land." (Involving the disbarment of Scopes as a teacher).

Other Questions Raised.

The other state constitutional questions raised involve charges that both the law and Scopes' indictment were "so indefinite as not to enable the defendant to know what is forbidden." One whole section of the motion deals with this subject.

Three charges of violations of the federal constitution were written into the motion. Those involved the fifth and sixth amendments and the first section of the fourteenth amendment. If their motion is defeated, and Scopes convicted, two distinct appeals will be carried clear to the nation's highest court on these same constitutional grounds. They form the actual legal battle ground of the anti-evolution case.

Dayton, Tenn., Ready

persuaded Circuit Judge John T. Raulston to call a special session of the Rhea county grand jury to indict Scopes. This was done on May 25 and the trial set for July 10.

Scopes, the center of the controversy, is a mild-mannered youth. He cannot be classed as a radical, and he is a firm believer in the Bible and the Christian religion. On the other hand, he has just as firm opinions on the right and free speech and free thought and on the theory of evolution.

He was born in Salem, Ill., which was also the birthplace of William Jennings Bryan. By coincidence, too, Bryan was Scopes' "boyhood hero," and the "Great Commoner" made the graduating address to Scopes' class in the Salem high school.

Now they are on opposing sides in the "Battle of the Century."

TODAY

With McAdoo and Hiram Johnson in the senate, other states would have to struggle for the limelight.

A rich man named Browning seeks "a pretty, refined girl, 14 years old for adoption." He has one adopted daughter and wants another to keep her company. He will give the adopted girl "every opportunity, education, travel, kindness, care, love."

Of course, he will, all perhaps except opportunity. Opportunity to eat, dress, travel and live free of work is not opportunity.

What would Rosa Bonheur have amounted to had a rich man adopted her? Her girl friend painted fruit boxes to buy food for two, while Rosa Bonheur painted pictures that made her famous, and undoubtedly gave her self-sufficient friend a place in Heaven. Who would have known Rosa Bonheur had a rich man adopted her?

The government will sell great ocean liners that don't pay, including Leviathan. Suppose the richest country in the world would run its ships without extravagant frills, brass bands, etc., and allow school teachers, high school and college students to go to Europe and back at cost, or, better still, free of cost. How much would it be worth to this nation to have 25,000 teachers and young students see and study Europe every year.

But, nothing of that kind could be done. It would be "paternalism." We could hire all the ships the world had for rent and spend $1,000,000,000 building ships that we never used to send 3,000,000 men abroad to help in a killing enterprise.

That is "conservative government."

The National City bank, under the management of C. E. Mitchell, reports new high records, which are amazing; total resources of $1,154,736,350—an increase of more than $50,000,000 in two months—and deposits of more than $910,000,000 in two months.

Other cities, Chicago, especially, show enormous increases of bank deposits. The increase of a few Chicago banks, totaling $67,000,000 in the two months. This seems to be a prosperous country.

In Athens, with the government's consent, American scientists will tear down 29 city blocks, to dig and uncover the ancient city of long centuries ago.

Revelations at a depth of not more than 29 feet, according to Prof. Capps, of the Greek department of Princeton, "may revolutionize human ideas."

That will interest more than one-tenth of one per cent of the human beings now alive but it is interesting all the same.

William McCracken

called Chief of Police McDermott who issued a warrant for his arrest. Police received a tip last night that McCracken was on Pennsylvania avenue near the car barns. Patrolman Chester Smith was sent to East End by Captain Conley where he arrested the suspect.

Taken before Chief McDermott, Captain Conley and Mayor Brown at the city hall, McCracken denied the thefts. When locked up in jail and told he would have to wait until the September term of the grand jury, he confessed to the Green robbery, police said. Later he also admitted the robbery of the Kerr garage and the paint shop, they claim.

Plunder is Recovered.

Captain Conley went to the young man's home in Harker avenue last night where he recovered a suitcase filled with overalls and jackets, men's socks, tobacco, chewing gum and other merchandise alleged to have been stolen from the Green store. He also located under the young man's bed a roll of automobile wrenches and tools, said to have been taken from the Kerr garage. A steel case, which he carried away from the garage, is said to have been secreted near the sewer pipe works, but it was missing when a search was made. Kerr reported to the police this morning that the case had been found by another party who returned it.

McCracken denied any connection with other robberies at the Green store. He said that he entered the store by cutting a hole in one of the door panels with a pen knife. He gained entrance to the Kerr garage through a window, which was unlatched, he told the police.

Klan Parade in Dayton.

DAYTON, O., July 9.—A permit has been issued for a Ku Klux Klan parade in Dayton Saturday, when advance announcements say, about 20,000 white-robed figures will be in the line of march.

The day will be given over to a conclave at the fairground with a fire works display at night.

Pawn Shop Owner Carries Fight Over Gun to High Court

I. H. Aaronsen, proprietor of a Diamond pawn shop has asked the common pleas court to reverse a recent decision of Justice of Peace Maud E. Gill, in which he was ordered to pay a $17 judgment.

Several weeks ago James Cox, of this city, pawned a Savage gun with Aaronsen for $2. When Cox attempted to redeem the gun, it was refused. Cox immediately entered suit before Justice Gill to obtain the gun or be reimbursed for the value of the weapon. Justice Gill rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

Aaronsen has posted a $100 bond in the case pending a ruling from the higher courts.

W. F. Lones

over, he did not consider prospects any too good.

The next day, hearing that several former East Liverpool people were to ride from Chattanooga, he decided to visit the town.

William S. Smith, Maplewood, founder of the Smith Hardware company, of this city, was then engaged in the lumber business in Dayton. Samuel Gettys, who was in the fire insurance business in East Liverpool for several years, occupying office space with an attorney, George S. Wilson, on the second floor of a frame building on the site of the present Hedderston Brothers' grocery store, Fourth street, was also a citizen of the southern town.

The town's only industry then was the Dayton Coal & Iron company. It obtained its iron ore in the hills back of town and also had an abundant coal supply along the Tennessee river, just three miles distant. Business was booming at that time and things looked good to Lones.

He opened up an office in the town, where he made many friends during the next three years. In 1893 he was elected mayor. A year later he was named for a second term.

In the Dayton mills were employed Mexicans and other foreigners. The police were kept busy in an effort to maintain order and each morning Lones would have a half dozen or a dozen offenders facing him for various offenses.

After completing his second term, Lones had an opportunity to return to Wellsville, to take up the practice of P. C. Young, who had been elected probate judge of Columbiana county. He left Dayton in 1891. The Smith family moved to East Liverpool before that time.

Knows Scopes Trial Attorneys.

Three years ago, Lones visited Dayton but the intervening years had wrought a transition from a once thriving community to a quiet country town. The company operating the mills had failed and the plant never resumed operations. A few of the "old timers" who had grown up with the village still remained.

Among Lones' old acquaintances whom he met upon his return to Dayton was Judge J. G. McKenzie, who was practicing law there when he was mayor, and who will assist in the prosecution in the trial which opens Friday. Attorney W. C. Haggard, who is also assisting in the prosecution, is a younger lawyer, whose family moved to Dayton from Georgia while Lones was residing there. Lones knew the elder Haggard who was in the banking business. Attorneys S. K. Hicks and H. E. Hicks, also counsel for the prosecution, took up the law profession in Dayton after Lones left. He met both brothers upon his visit there.

While Lones was making his home in Dayton, the county seat of Rhea county was moved from Washington. Dayton was growing by such wonderful strides that it was regarded as the logical center of county government. "Dayton's population today consists of people of the very best kind," the attorney said. "The riff-raff class who were employed in the mills have left town and the better class remained. It bears little resemblance to the place I felt when I retired as mayor."

Germany's association of department stores which maintains a central buying organization, now has 4,000 members.

Wellsville Patrol Driver Suspended Following Crash

H. F. Hurd, member of the Wellsville police department, today was suspended, without pay, from his duties as patrolman for a period of 15 days by order of Chief of Police John Fultz as a result of investigation conducted jointly by Chief Fultz and Mayor J. S. Barnes into circumstances surrounding the partial wrecking of the motor patrol in Eighteenth street Monday night.

Patrolman Hurd's suspension period starts tonight. He is charged with reckless driving.

Returning from a police chase after two alleged auto bandits in the west end of the city Monday night, Hurd, it is said, was driving the motor patrol back to the police station after he had captured one of the two suspects.

According to the patrolman, he was driving the car rapidly in order that he could jail his prisoner and go back to aid other police in the search. He applied the brakes at a point near the Commerce street intersection, and they grabbed, he said, the patrol skidding into a telephone pole.

An investigation of the case was demanded Tuesday night during a session of council by colon William Nicholson, and council called upon the safety department for an immediate probe.

'88. At his suggestion the club voted in favor of a county Kiwanis picnic which will be held at Rock Springs park sometime during August. Each Kiwanis club in the county will be asked to designate one member to work in conjunction with the inter-city relations committee in arranging this picnic.

The attendance prize, four luncheon coupons, good only for consecutive meetings, furnished by J. W. Moore, was awarded to Clarence Howell. C. W. Hendershot, head of the public affairs committee, made a report on the proposed signs which the club plans to erect along the roads leading into the city.

Frank Jones spoke briefly on the subject, "The Value of Kiwanis Membership." He pointed out that Kiwanis was promoting a spirit of better friendship between the people of the United States and Canada, was encouraging a more friendly feeling between neighboring cities and also a better feeling between individuals.

MOTHER AND TOT MURDER VICTIMS

NEW YORK, July 9.—A double murder of a mother and a child was discovered by the police here today in the finding of the bodies of Mrs. Marie Blanton, and her 6-year old daughter, Jane. They were found on the floor of their apartment, 396 East 34th street, both with their throats hacked open.

MATHEWSON "VERY SICK MAN," REPORT

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., July 9.—Despite reports to the contrary Christy Mathewson is "a very sick man," according to Dr. E. N. Packard, his physician, today. Dr. Packard described his condition as a recurrence of Mathewson's old enemy, tuberculosis which he contracted during the World War. The big pitcher has been confined to his home for three weeks and has a pronounced fever.

Only one-half the surtaxes in Italy on incomes of $2,000 or more will be collected this year.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 9.—Although there was no pronounced activity in the stock market during early trading today prices generally were slightly higher. Trading in oil stocks, which featured the opening, fell off subsequently and activity was largely confined to rails, motors, industrials, equipment and copper stocks.

United States Steel was active and strong. This stock which closed at 116 1/2 yesterday advanced above 117 this morning. North American company was up 1/2 to 5 1/2 at the outset.

Fisher Body, which closed at 7 1/2 yesterday, was very active today, advancing to 7 1/2, a new high, the former high being 7 1/2. Buying of much of this stock was prompted by market gossip to the effect that General Motors, which owns 60 per cent of Fisher Body, was buying up other shares in the company.

The activity in copper stocks was a continuation of the movement which started a few days ago. Copper Metal was selling firmly around 14 cents a pound, with many producers unwilling to sell at that price. Leaders in the movement were Kennicott, Cerro de Pasco, Chili and Anaconda.

Motor stocks were irregular. There seemed to be much profit-taking in Pierce Arrow, Packard and other of the lower priced stocks which were active of late, were fractionally lower. Timken Roller bearing was active, leading in the motor accessories division, selling at 4 1/2 at one stage this morning. Up nearly two points from yesterday's low, Kelly Springfield and Goodrich were slightly irregular. General Motors and Yellow Cab were unchanged.

Specialty stocks were generally strong, with advances of a point or more in Weston Electrical Instrument, Certified Products, Colorado Fuel and Barnet Leather.

Call money was unchanged at 3 1/2.

1—Section 12, article 2: "It shall be the duty of the general assembly in all future periods of this government to cherish literature and science."

2—Section 3, article 1: "That all men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own conscience; that no human authority can in any case whatever control or interfere with the rights of conscience; and that no preference shall ever be given by law to any religious establishment or mode of worship."

3—Section 19, article 1: "The free communication of thoughts and opinions is one of the invaluable rights of man and every citizen may freely speak, write and print on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty."

4—Section 8, article 1: "No man shall be deprived of his freehold, liberties or privileges, or in any manner destroyed of his property, but by the judgment of his peers and the law of the land." (Involving the disbarment of Scopes as a teacher).

Other Questions Raised.

The other state constitutional questions raised involve charges that both the law and Scopes' indictment were "so indefinite as not to enable the defendant to know what is forbidden." One whole section of the motion deals with this subject.

Three charges of violations of the federal constitution were written into the motion. These involved the fifth and sixth amendments and the first section of the fourteenth amendment. If their motion is defeated and Scopes convicted, two distinct appeals will be carried clear to the nation's highest court on these same constitutional grounds. They form the actual legal battle ground of the anti-evolution case.

Dayton, Tenn., Ready

persuaded Circuit Judge John T. Raulston to call a special session of the Rhea county grand jury to indict Scopes. This was done on May 25 and the trial set for July 10.

Scopes, the center of the controversy, is a mild-mannered youth. He cannot be classed as a radical, and he is a firm believer in the Bible and the Christian religion. On the other hand, he has just as firm opinions on the right and free speech and free thought and on the theory of evolution.

He was born in Salem, Ill., which was the birthplace of William Jennings Bryan. By coincidence, too, Bryan was Scopes' "boyhood hero," and the "Great Commoner" made the graduating address to Scopes' class in the Salem high school.

Now they are on opposing sides in the "Battle of the Century."

With McAdoo and Hiram Johnson in the senate, other states would have to struggle for the limelight.

A rich man named Browning seeks "a pretty, refined girl, 14 years old, for adoption." He has one adopted daughter and wants another to keep her company. He will give the adopted girl "every opportunity, education, travel, kindness, care, love."

Of course, he will, all perhaps except opportunity. Opportunity to eat, dress, travel and live free of work is not opportunity.

What would Rosa Bonheur have amounted to had a rich man adopted her. Her girl friend painted rural boxes to buy food for two, while Rosa Bonheur painted pictures that made her famous, and undoubtedly gave her self-sacrificing friend a place in Heaven. Who would have known Rosa Bonheur had a rich man adopted her?

The government will sell great ocean liners that don't pay, including Leviathan. Suppose the richest country in the world would run its ships without extravagant trim, brass bands, etc., and allow school teachers, high school and college students to go to Europe and back at cost, or, better still, free of cost. How much would it be worth to this nation to have 25,000 teachers and young students see and study Europe every year.

But, nothing of that kind could be done. It would be "paternalism." We could hire all the ships the world had for rent and spend $1,000,000,000 building ships that we never used to send 3,000,000 men abroad to help in a killing enterprise.

That is "conservative government."

The National City bank, under the management of C. E. Mitchell, reports new high records, which are amazing; total resources of $1,154,730,350—an increase of more than $50,000,000 in two months—and deposits of more than $910,000,000 in two months.

Other cities, Chicago especially, show enormous increases of bank deposits, the increase of a few Chicago banks exceeding $67,000,000 in the two months. This seems to be a prosperous country.

In Athens, with the government's consent, American scientists will tear down 29 city blocks, to dig and uncover the ancient city of long centuries ago.

Revelations at a depth of not more than 20 feet, according to Prof. Capps, of the Greek department of Princeton, "may revolutionize human ideas."

That will interest not more than one-tenth of one per cent of the human beings now alive but it is interesting all the same.

called Chief of Police McDermott who issued a warrant for his arrest. Police received a tip last night that McCracken was on Pennsylvania avenue near the car barns. Patrolman Chester Smith was sent to East End by Captain Conley where he arrested the suspect.

Taken before Chief McDermott, Captain Conley and Mayor Brown at the city hall, McCracken denied the thefts. When locked up in jail and told he would have to wait until the September term of the grand jury, he confessed to the Green robbery, police said. Later he also admitted the robbery of the Kerr garage and the paint shop, they claim.

Plunder is Recovered.

Captain Conley went to the young man's home in Harker avenue last night where he recovered a suitcase filled with overalls and jackets, men's socks, tobacco, chewing gum and other merchandise alleged to have been stolen from the Green store. He also located under the young man's bed a roll of automobile wrenches and tools, said to have been taken from the Kerr garage. A steel case, which he carried away from the garage, is said to have been secreted near the sewer pipe works, but it was missing when a search was made. Kerr reported to the police this morning that the case had been found by another party who returned it.

McCracken denied any connection with other robberies at the Green store. He said that he entered the store by cutting a hole in one of the door panels with a pen knife. He gained entrance to the Kerr garage through a window, which was unwatched, he told the police.

Klan Parade in Dayton.

DAYTON, O., July 9.—A permit has been issued for a Ku Klux Klan parade in Dayton Saturday, when advance announcements say, about 20,000 white-robed figures will be in the line of march.

The day will be given over to a convocation at the fairground with a fireworks display at night.

Pawn Shop Owner Carries Fight Over Gun to High Court

I. H. Aaronson, proprietor of a Diamond pawn shop has asked the common pleas court to reverse a recent decision of Justice of Peace Maud E. Gill in which he was ordered to pay a $17 judgment.

Several weeks ago James Cox, of this city, pawned a Savage gun with Aaronson, for $2. When Cox attempted to redeem the gun, it was refused. Cox immediately entered suit before Justice Gill to obtain the gun or be reimbursed for the value of the weapon. Justice Gill rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

Aaronson has posted a $100 bond in the case pending a ruling from the higher courts.

W. F. Lones

over, he did not consider prospects any too good.

The next day, hearing that several former East Liverpool people were located in Dayton, only a few hours' ride from Chattanooga, he decided to visit the town.

William S. Smith, Maplewood, founder of the Smith Hardware company, of this city, was then engaged in the lumber business in Dayton. Samuel Gettys, who was in the fire insurance business in East Liverpool for several years, occupying office space with an attorney, George S. Wilson, on the second floor of a frame building on the site of the present Heddlston Brothers' grocery store, Fourth street, was also a citizen of the southern town.

The town's only industry then was the Dayton Coal & Iron company. It obtained its iron ore in the hills back of town and also had an abundant coal supply along the Tennessee river, just three miles distant. Business was booming at that time and things looked good to Lones.

He opened up an office in the town, where he made many friends during the next three years. In 1893 he was elected mayor. A year later he was named for a second term.

In the Dayton mills were employed Mexicans and other foreigners. The police were kept busy in an effort to maintain order and each morning Lones would have a half dozen or a dozen offenders facing him for various offenses.

After completing his second term, Lones had an opportunity to return to Wellsville, to take up the practice of P. C. Young, who had been elected probate judge of Columbiana county. He left Dayton in 1891. The Smith family moved to East Liverpool before that time.

Knows Scopes Trial Attorneys.

Three years ago, Lones visited Dayton but the intervening years had wrought a transition from a once thriving community to a quiet country town. The company operating the mills had failed and the plant never resumed operations. A few of the "old timers" who had grown up with the village still remained.

Among Lones' old acquaintances, whom he met upon his return to Dayton was Judge J. G. McKenzie, who was practicing law there when he was mayor, and who will assist in the prosecution in the trial which opens Friday. Attorney W. C. Haggard, who is also assisting in the prosecution, is a younger lawyer, whose family moved to Dayton from Georgia while Lones was residing there. Lones knew the elder Haggard who was in the banking business. Attorneys S. K. Hicks and H. E. Hicks, also counsel for the prosecution, took up the law profession in Dayton after Lones left. He met both brothers upon his visit there.

While Lones was making his home in Dayton, the county seat of Rhea county was moved from Washington. Dayton was growing by such wonderful strides that it was regarded as the logical center of county government. "Dayton's population today consists of people of the very best kind," the attorney said. "The rift-raft class who were employed in the mills have left town and the better class remained. It bears little resemblance to the place I left when I retired as mayor."

Germany's association of department stores which maintains a central buying organization, now has 2,000 members.

Wellsville Patrol Driver Suspended Following Crash

H. F. Hurd, member of the Wellsville police department, today was suspended, without pay, from his duties as patrolman for a period of 15 days by order of Chief of Police John Fultz as a result of investigation conducted jointly by Chief Fultz and Mayor J. S. Barnes into circumstances surrounding the partial wrecking of the motor patrol in Eighteenth street Monday night.

Patrolman Hurd's suspension period starts tonight. He is charged with reckless driving.

Returning from a police chase after two alleged auto bandits in the west end of the city Monday night Hurd, it is said, was driving the motor patrol back to the police station after he had captured one of the two suspects.

According to the patrolman, he was driving the car rapidly in order that he could jail his prisoner and go back to aid other police in the search. He applied the brakes at a point near the Commerce street intersection, and they grabbed, he said, the patrol skidding into a telephone pole.

An investigation of the case was demanded Tuesday night during a session of council by son William Nicholson, and council called upon the safety department for an immediate probe.

Kiwanis Will Aid

At his suggestion the club voted in favor of a county Kiwanis picnic which will be held at Rock Springs park sometime during August. Each Kiwanis club in the county will be asked to designate one member to work in conjunction with the inter-city relations committee in arranging this picnic.

The attendance prize, four luncheon coupons, good only for consecutive meetings, furnished by J. W. Moore, was awarded to Clarence Howell. C. W. Henderson, head of the public affairs committee, made a report on the proposed signs which the club plans to erect along the roads leading into the city.

Frank Jones spoke briefly on the subject, "The Value of Kiwanis Membership." He pointed out that Kiwanis was promoting a spirit of better friendship between the people of the United States and Canada, was encouraging a more friendly feeling between neighboring cities and also a better feeling between individuals.

WORKERS' PARTY MEETING SUNDAY

A mass meeting of local members of the Workers' Party of America will be held in Trades and Labor Council hall at 7:30 o'clock next Sunday evening, when a speaker from the Chicago headquarters will talk on the subject, "Stand by Soviet Russia," and "Hands Off China."

The meeting was called at the request of C. E. Rutherford, Chicago, national secretary.

MOTHER AND TOT MURDER VICTIMS

NEW YORK, July 9.—A double murder of a mother and a child was discovered by the police here today in the finding of the bodies of Mrs. Marie Bianco, and her 6-year-old daughter, Jane. They were found on the floor of their apartment, 206 East 34th street, both with their throats hacked open.

MATHEWSON "VERY SICK MAN," REPORT

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., July 9.—Despite reports to the contrary Christy Mathewson is "a very sick man," according to Dr. E. N. Packard, his physician, today. Dr. Packard described his condition as a recurrence of Mathewson's old enemy, tuberculosis which he contracted during the World war. The big pitcher has been confined to his home for three weeks and has a pronounced fever.

Only one-half the surtaxes in Italy on incomes of $2,000 or more will be collected this year.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 9.—Although there was no pronounced activity in the stock market during early trading today prices generally were slightly higher. Trading in oil stocks, which featured the opening, fell off subsequently and activity was largely confined to rails, motors, industrials, equipment and copper stocks.

United States Steel was active and strong. This stock which closed at 11 1/2 yesterday advanced about 1/2 this morning. North American company was up 1/2 to 50 1/2 at the outset.

Fisher Body, which closed at 7 1/2 yesterday, was very active today, advancing to 7 1/2, a new high, the former high being 7 1/2. Buying of this stock was prompted by market gossip to the effect that General Motors, which owns 60 per cent of Fisher Body, was buying up other shares in the company.

The activity in copper stocks was a continuation of the movement which started a few days ago. Copper Metal was selling firmly around 14 cents a pound, with many producers unwilling to sell at that price. Leaders in the movement were Kennicott, Cerro de Pasco, Chibbi and Anaconda.

Motor stocks were irregular. There seemed to be much profit-taking as Pierce Arrow, Packard and other of the lower priced stocks which were active of late, were fractionally lower. Timken Roller bearing was active, leading in the motor accessories division, selling at 4 1/2 at one stage this morning. Up nearly two points from yesterday's low, Kelly Springfield and Goodrich were slightly irregular. General Motors and Yellow Cab were unchanged.

Specialty stocks were generally strong, with advances of a point or more in Weston Electrical Instrument, Certified Products, Colorado Fuel and Barnet Leather.

Call money was unchanged at 3 1/2.

HARPER DENIES MIS TREATMENT

Welfare Director Avers Davis Boy's Death Was Natural.

Documentary evidence showing that Ralph Davis, 15, of Fourteenth street, Wellsville, died at the Lancaster Boys' Industrial school as a result of natural causes and not from mistreatment can be produced for any body of investigators, according to State Welfare Director John E. Harper, in reply today to Wellsville city council's demands, based on community protest, that Governor Donahay launch an immediate investigation.

In the meantime, City Clerk George S. Hardman, who Tuesday night telegraphed to Governor Donahay at the request of council, has failed to receive direct reply from the capitol, although it is understood that Governor Donahay will ask city council to appoint a committee of its own to investigate. This committee would, at the close of its investigation, report its findings to the state executive, who then would decide on the ensuing course of action.

According to dispatches from Columbus, it is also understood that Governor Donahay has expressed himself as being willing to order an inquiry if Wellsville city council does not care to name a committee to act.

Superintendent A. M. Buescher, of the boys' school, declares that the boy's death was due to entirely natural causes following an illness that produced perforation of the intestinal tract. He said the boy had never been whipped, and that at the time of his death an investigation was made.

"At that time," the director declared, "this department heard that there were rumors afloat and we made an investigation. The coroner's report shows he died of natural causes."

"Affidavits of other physicians, of attendants and inmates at the school also showed there was nothing irregular. These documents, sworn to by them, are in my office and are open for inspection."

Supt. Buescher declared he had attempted to "trace every movement of the boy and of the attendants in the department where he was located, and can find no evidence of ill-treatment."

"Probate Judge Riddle, who sentenced the boy, came here himself in search of the facts and returned to Lisbon satisfied," the Superintendent stated.

D. P. Davis, the father of the boy, requested an autopsy after the body had been returned to Wellsville. Photographs of it, said to show discoloration and welts are to be sent to the governor.

According to information in possession of Director Harper, the discoloration was caused by hot water bottles which were not removed from the body until after the death of the boy. This information is that they were removed by the undertaker, who, at that time, made a note of the discoloration.

A game with the Sherwood team has been scheduled for Saturday.

HARPER DENIES MISTREATMENT

Welfare Director Avers Davis Boy's Death Was Natural.

Documentary evidence showing that Ralph Davis, 15, of Fourteenth street, Wellsville, died at the Lancaster Boys' Industrial school as a result of natural causes and not from mistreatment can be produced for any body of investigators, according to State Welfare Director John E. Harper, in reply today to Wellsville city council's demands, based on community protest, that Governor Donahay launch an immediate investigation.

In the meantime, City Clerk George S. Hardman, who Tuesday night telegraphed to Governor Donahay at the request of council, has failed to receive direct reply from the capitol, although it is understood that Governor Donahay will ask city council to appoint a committee of its own to investigate. This committee would, at the close of its investigation, report its findings to the state executive, who then would decide on the ensuing course of action.

According to dispatches from Columbus, it is also understood that Governor Donahay has expressed himself as being willing to order an inquiry if Wellsville city council does not care to name a committee to act.

Superintendent A. M. Buescher, of the boys' school, declares that the boy's death was due to entirely natural causes following an illness that produced perforation of the intestinal tract. He said the boy had never been whipped, and that at the time of his death an investigation was made.

"At that time," the director declared, "this department heard that there were rumors afloat and we made an investigation. The coroner's report shows he died of natural causes."

"Affidavits of other physicians, of attendants and inmates at the school also showed there was nothing irregular. These documents, sworn to by them, are in my office and are open for inspection."

Supt. Buescher declared he had attempted to "trace every movement of the boy and of the attendants in the department where he was located, and can find no evidence of ill-treatment."

"Probate Judge Riddle, who sentenced the boy, came here himself in search of the facts and returned to Lisbon satisfied," the Superintendent stated.

D. P. Davis, the father of the boy, requested an autopsy after the body had been returned to Wellsville. Photographs of it, said to show discoloration and welts are to be sent to the governor.

According to information in possession of Director Harper, the discoloration was caused by hot water bottles which were not removed from the body until after the death of the boy. This information is that they were removed by the undertaker, who, at that time, made a note of the discoloration.

On With The Scopes Trial

It is just as well that the federal courts have refused to interfere in the Tennessee evolution case and prevent a trial of John T. Scopes on grounds of unconstitutionality.

Surely the town of Dayton, after all its efforts to get into the national highlights, has a moral right to further publicity. And there was no use cluttering up an already complicated case with a row about state rights. The commonwealth of Tennessee, as well as the town of Dayton, has its pride in this matter—also is responsibility.

So the case will be fought through along the lines drawn. If it is really contrary to the Constitution of the United States for a legislature to forbid specific teaching of scientific theories, or anything else, in its schools and colleges, that fact will be arrived at in due time, as the case moves on to the court of last appeal.

Meanwhile the big show will open Friday, and the national public will look in and listen in upon a proceeding such as most of the educated folk of this day never expected to find outside of the pages of medieval history.

Postoffice a Storage Plant

The public has a chance to help the government save a large chunk of the public money if it wishes. Last year, it is reported, the United States postoffice sustained the expense of storage for six months each on 300,000 parcels ultimately found undeliverable. Sometimes there is a dispute between sender and addressee which postpones the delivery of a parcel, and during the period of delay Uncle Sam holds the package and provides free storage for it. But most often the cause of this costly delay of mail lies entirely with the sender who fails to address the package properly.

The postoffice proposes to remedy this evil. Beginning August 1, mailers of parcels will be required to guarantee return postage on all non-deliverable packages. If any sender refuses to assume this obligation he will automatically forfeit all claim to the parcel, which will be put up at auction along with other unclaimed articles.

This is a wholly reasonable step on the part of the postoffice. It will accomplish several desirable ends, such as saving public money, lessening losses of mailed articles, encouraging greater accuracy in addressing mail and speeding up the handling of such parcels. Perhaps, too, the saving effected will have a beneficial influence upon the incomes of postal clerks and letter carriers.

A Museum Of Fashions

Something new in museums is to be established in Paris. For some time that city has been having a fashion exposition in connection with its annual art salons. These exhibitions have been so successful that they have suggested the idea of a permanent museum devoted entirely to the history of fashion.

The municipal council is expected to appropriate funds for the creation and upkeep of the museum. Trade organizations and business houses will be asked to subscribe.

There will be examples of successive fashions in dress through the ages and a complete collection of fashion journals, drawings and designs by fashion artists.

Perhaps mere fashions in themselves do not deserve as much attention and serious study. But fashions as they reflect different periods in civilization and suggest different times and manners and recent progress toward more healthful and sensible clothing and habits will have interest for many different classes of people, from the sociologist and artist to the hygienist. Undoubtedly, too, some of the fashions displayed in this museum can serve always as horrible examples of how never again to dress.

Most-Needed Inventions

Some one recently wrote to a newspaper question department to ask what are the greatest inventions yet to be made. No less a person than Hudson Maxim gives the answer.

The greatest invention yet to be made, he says, is a method of government whereby the common people may be made self-governing and at the same time be prevented from committing political and social suicide through enfranchised ignorance and avarice. This is a rather large order and one which most persons would expect to have filled only by means of a long process of education and intellectual development.

The next things the famous inventor suggests as being greatly needed are a method utilizing inter-atomic energy for power and heat and a method of transmitting dynamic energy by wireless, so that from a central source motors may be run hundreds and thousands of miles away. These, also, are large orders, but there have already been scientific foreshadowings of a day when they will be found among the practical achievements. Still another suggested need is a simple device by which deaf people may hear.

Perhaps these things are no more difficult or impossible than other marvels which have long since become commonplace. At least they are thought-provoking.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 9.—Philadelphia Kitty has followed Doc Shuffield up the starchy trail. Each ministered to the poor of the Bowery and Chinatown without pay or hope of reward. They were not reformers. They were friends of the friendless.

Doc Shuffield was a fellow of a royal surgical society who lost all through drink save love for humanity. His fine, prominent nose was shot with tiny red veins and his face usually revealed a three day growth, but he clung to his battered silk hat and greasy frock coat.

The sick never called on Doc in vain and there is no record of him ever charging the poor a fee. His accent was British and his manners impeccable. The bleary eyed bums and sets respected him and shrank into corners when he appeared in the five-cent-a-shot barrel houses of other days.

Doc contracted pneumonia struggling in a snow to reach a patient and the thin hold he had on life quickly slipped. Philadelphia Kitty was a silver haired woman of 60. "Her people were folks," they said of her along the Bowery, but she never talked of herself.

She was not trying to lead people from the gutter to God. Where ever she found them she merely tried to spread happiness. If they wanted to lead better lives it was their business, not hers, although their reformation always made her happy.

She battled the incongruities of life with a smile, handclasp and kind word. She came unheeded to the square of the Bowery 40 years ago. It was the days when the neighborhood was filled with the painted women and predatory libertines of these unenured days.

There were tong wars, lantern parlors, white slavery and nightly blood combats. One night Kitty walked in to McGurk's Suicide Hall after midnight. The rowdiness simmered to a hum. She stood up and said quietly, "Let's all take one night off and go home and write a few letters home." In ten minutes the place was deserted.

Broadway is trying to trace the birthplace of that cooling summer drink, now banned, the Tom Collins. Some say it was made at the suggestion of a visiting Englishman at the old Belvedere bar. But that was in the early 80's and an old timer remembers having a long Tom in Montreal in 1913. There was a Tom Collins in Charles Lamb's time who was a barman in Conduit Square. He fashioned many drinks and it may have been named in his honor.

Incidentally there are many dishes named after celebrities on New York menus. The Ritz has a Mary Pickford Salad. Reuben's has an S. J. Kaufman Special Sandwich. Pierre's a Peach Farrar Voisin's toast. Herkeshimer, the Colony Club, fruit coupe a la Bartholme, the Elftone a desert a la Julie. Parake and of course there are the old standbys—Pear Melba and canteloupe. Lillian Russell.

Canteloupe Lillian Russell, which is ice cream in canteloupe, dates back to the Weber-Fieldian days when Miss Russell was in the full pomp of her fame. She used to go to the Waldorf after the theatre and order this dish which was her own invention. One evening imperious Oscar strolled by, stopped and saw the delicacy. "To-day," he said, "a famous dessert is born." The next day it appeared on the menus and is known all over the world. Even the famous Parisian cuisiniers have copied it—name and all.

I have neglected the best dish of all at Dinty Moore's near the Globe theatre. It is corn beef and—George McManus. This dish, by the by, has been voted the favorite of New Yorkers in a contest started by the Restaurant association. Corned Beef Hash should be in the running. HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Progress in Standardization.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Ever since Herbert Hoover has been Secretary of Commerce he has advocated the elimination of waste in industry through standardization. He has felt that the standard of living for the American people might well be raised if they could be persuaded to buy standard articles instead of novelties. It is possible for a manufacturer to sell at a considerably lower figure a standard article which may be the result of mass production. The manufacturers and distributors in large part are in favor of cooperation for simplification and standardization. It is estimated that already the saving through such cooperation runs into millions of dollars.

In many industries there have been many styles and types of articles made that had no general appeal whatever. These would accumulate on the shelves of the merchants and eventually in order to get rid of them they would be obliged to sell them at a great reduction.

Here is a point that the department wishes to bring to the attention of the public. The merchant must make a profit on his entire stock and if he is obliged to sacrifice on one line he must make it up on another. Consequently in the last analysis the ultimate consumer pays. He may get a bargain on a particular purchase, but the next time he buys a standard article, part of the loss incurred in the first sale is absorbed in the price of the second article.

Manufacturers are making studies of the number of styles which carry the bulk of their business. A manufacturer of men's felt hats found that 50 per cent of the business on 5081 styles and colors was done in seven styles and ten colors. He consequently simplified his line and has become a staunch advocate of simplification.

A manufacturer of shoes simplified his line from three grades and 2,500 styles to one grade and 100 styles. Right here the department hastens to say that this does not signify that the manufacturers of women's shoes are planning to curb military's desire for fancy footgear. The manufacturer will continue to make novelty shoes for the feminine sex. The idea is to make also a standard line which may be sold at a lower price, so that a woman may if she so desires get shoes of standard quality at reasonable cost.

Since there is apt to be a loss in the novelty shoes, the profit must be carried by the standard, and thus the price of the standard is necessarily higher than would be the case otherwise.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Harrison are spending ten days in Atlantic City.

TEN YEARS AGO.

July 9, 1915. Miss Marjorie Hilbert returned Saturday after a six weeks' visit in Philadelphia, Cape May and Atlantic City.

The sixth birthday anniversary of Cecil Arthur Williams was observed recently when his mother, Mrs. Arthur Williams, entertained a group of little girls.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith and Miss Eva Rose of West Fourth street witnessed the ordination of Victor A. Smith, formerly of this city, who is pastor of the Episcopal church at Co-shecton.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Adams have returned home after a three weeks' honeymoon. The bride was formerly Miss Riley of Chester.

Misses Dora Kinsey, Margaret and Myrtle Birch and Bessie Robinson are students for the summer at Kent Normal school.

By Fontaine Fox

strong protest, saying that it would handicap progress. Advocates reply that this not so—that it is not the intention of the plan to curb progress in any way. No effort is to be made to discontinue the manufacture of the specialty or novelty product. It is simply to do away with expending of fort and time on that which experience has shown is salable to only a very minor percentage of the trade. Its aim is to give the consumer the best possible value for his money. By mass production and simplified practice it is possible for the manufacturer to make a better grade of product for less money, and this reduction in turn is passed along to the consumer.

It is further noted, however, that while this professor criticizes standardization along other lines on the score that it impedes progress, he has made no provision for an increase in the size of his list of representative books. There is no room for any books which may have been written since and which may merit a place with those he recommends.

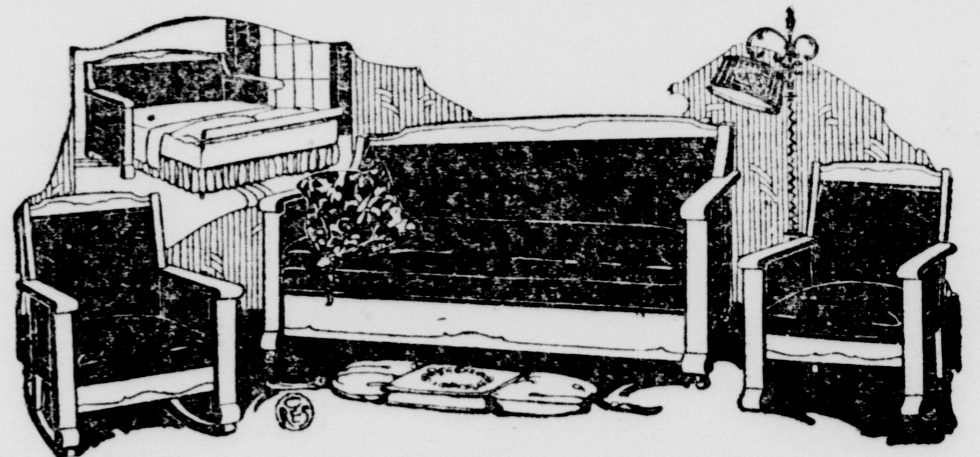

To other criticism that standardization makes it impossible for the individual to express his personality or his tastes, the department of Commerce says that the use of standard materials does not necessarily suppress individualism. The fact that a man uses standard bricks does not mean that his house must be exactly like those of all of his neighbors who use the same. His individual taste may be expressed by the architecture—the manner in which this material is used.

This same idea may be applied to a standard grade of material such as blue serge. Individualism is not expressed so much in the grade or weave of the material as in the tailoring.

The manufacturers and distributors of the country are coming more and more to a full appreciation of the effort the government is making to assist them in putting their business on a sound economical basis. Secretary Hoover's policy of putting the government behind business rather than in business has had a decided influence upon business generally and the department's program of simplification is rapidly being accepted as a real contribution of government to industry. This is eliminating the old distrust of any suggestions the government might make concerning business.

Something new in museums is to be established in Paris. For some time that city has been having a fashion exposition in connection with its annual art salons. These exhibitions have been so successful that they have suggested the idea of a permanent museum devoted entirely to the history of fashion.

The municipal council is expected to appropriate funds for the creation and upkeep of the museum. Trade organizations and business houses will be asked to subscribe.

There will be examples of successive fashions in dress through the ages and a complete collection of fashion journals, drawings and designs by fashion artists.

Perhaps mere fashions in themselves do not deserve as much attention and serious study. But fashions as they reflect different periods in civilization and suggest different times and manners and recent progress toward more healthful and sensible clothing and habits will have interest for many different classes of people, from the sociologist and artist to the hygienist. Undoubtedly, too, some of the fashions displayed in this museum can serve always as horrible examples of how never again to dress.

Most-Needed Inventions

Some one recently wrote to a newspaper question department to ask what are the greatest inventions yet to be made. No less a person than Hudson Maxim gives the answer.

The greatest invention yet to be made, he says, is a method of government whereby the common people may be made self governing and at the same time be prevented from committing political and social suicide through enfranchisement ignorance and avarice. This is a rather large order and one which most persons would expect to have filled only by means of a long process of education and intellectual development.

The next things the famous inventor suggests as being greatly needed are a method utilizing inter-atomic energy for power and heat and a method of transmitting dynamic energy by wireless, so that from a central source motors may be run hundreds and thousands of miles away. These, also, are large orders, but there have already been scientific foreshadowings of a day when they will be found among the practical achievements. Still another suggested need is a simple device by which deaf people may hear.

Perhaps these things are no more difficult or impossible than other marvels which have long since become commonplace. At least they are thought-provoking.

Italy, which is nothing if not gallant to its womenfolk, has generously given them the right to fight in the next war.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 9.—Philadelphia Kitty has followed Doc Shaffield to the stony trail. Each ministered to the poor of the Bowery and Chinatown without pay or hope of reward. They were not reformers. They were friends of the friendless.

Doc Shaffield was a fellow of a royal surgical society who lost all through drink save love for humanity. His fine, prominent nose was shot with tiny red veins and his face usually revealed a three day growth, but he clung to his battered silk hat and greasy frock coat.

The sick never called on Doc in vain and there is no record of him ever charging the poor a fee. His accent was British and his manners impeccable. The bleary eyed bums and sots respected him and shrank into corners when he appeared in the five-cent-a-shot barrell houses of other days.

Doc contracted pneumonia struggling in a snow to reach a patient and the thin hold he had on life quickly slipped. Philadelphia Kitty was a silver haired woman of 60. "Her people were folks," they said of her along the Bowery, but she never talked of herself.

She was not trying to lead people from the gutter to God. Where ever she found them she merely tried to spread happiness. If they wanted to lead better lives it was their business, not hers, although their reformation always made her happy.

She battled the incongruities of life with a smile, handclasp and kind word. She came unheeded to the squalor of the Bowery 40 years ago. It was the days when the neighborhood was filled with the painted women and predatory libertines of these unenlightened days.

There were tong wars, lantern parlors, white slavery and nightly blind conclaves. One night Kitty walked in to McGurk's Suicide Hall after midnight. The rowdism smothered to a hum. She stood up and said quietly, "Let's all take one night off and go home and write a few letters home." In ten minutes the place was deserted.

Broadway is trying to trace the birthplace of that cooling summer drink, now banned, the Tom Collins. Some say it was made at the suggestion of a visiting Englishman at the old Reddick bar. But that was in the early '80s and an old timer of members having a long Tom in Montreal in 1913. There was a Tom Collins in Charles Lamb's time who was a barman in Conduit Square. He fashioned many drinks and it may have been named in his honor.

Incidentally there are many dishes named after celebrities on New York menus. The Ritz has a Mary Pickford Salad. Reuben's has an S. J. Kaufman Special Sandwich. Pierre's a Peach Farrar Veal's a toast Herzhheimer, the Colony Club fruit coupe a la Bartholomew, the Elftown a desert a la Billie Burke and of course there are the old standbys—Pear Melba and canteloupe Lillian Russell.

Canteloupe Lillian Russell, which is ice cream in canteloupe, dates back to the Weberfield days when Miss Russell was in the full pomp of her fame. She used to go to the Waldorf after the theatre and order this dish which was her own invention. One evening imperious Oscar strolled by, stopped and saw the delicacy. "Today," he said, "a famous dessert is born." The next day it appeared on the menus and is known all over the world. Even the famous Parisian canteens have copied it—name and all.

I have neglected the best dish of all at Dinty Moore's near the Globe theatre. It is corn beef and—George McManus. This dish, by the by, has been voted the favorite of New Yorkers in a contest started by the Reel, aurant association. Corned Beef Hash should be in the running. HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Progress in Standardization.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Ever since Herbert Hoover has been Secretary of Commerce he has advocated the elimination of waste in industry through standardization. He has felt that the standard of living for the American people might well be raised if they could be persuaded to buy standard articles instead of novelties. It is possible for a manufacturer to sell at a considerably lower figure a standard article which may be the result of mass production. The manufacturers and distributors in large part are in favor of cooperation for simplification and standardization. It is estimated that already the saving through such cooperation runs into millions of dollars.

In many industries there have been many styles and types of articles made that had no general appeal what ever. These would accumulate on to Chicago for a three weeks visit. Wilbert Jackson of Orchard Grove avenue is the guest of friends in Richmond, Va.

Miss Anna Rutherford has returned to her home after a week's visit in Canton, where she attended the wedding of her sister, Miss Lulu Rutherford, and Robert Denis.

Mrs. A. G. Bentley and children have concluded a month's visit with Mrs. Herbert Goodwin of Avondale street, and returned to their home in Detroit, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Harrison are spending ten days in Atlantic City.

TEN YEARS AGO.

July 9, 1915.

Miss Marjorie Hilbert returned Saturday after a six weeks' visit in Philadelphia, Cape May and Atlantic City. The sixth birthday anniversary of Gerald Arthur Williams was observed recently when his mother, Mrs. Arthur Williams, entertained a group of little folks.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith and Miss Eva Ross of West Fourth street witnessed the ordination of Victor A. Smith, formerly of this city, who is pastor of the Episcopal church at Co-shecton.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Adams have returned home, after a three weeks' honeymoon. The bride was formerly Miss Riley of Chester.

Misses Dora Kinsey, Margaret and Mervile Birch and Bessie Robinson are students for the summer at Kent Normal school.

the shelves of the merchants and eventually in order to get rid of them they would be obliged to sell them at a great reduction.

Here is a point that the department wishes to bring to the attention of the public. The merchant must make a profit on his entire stock and if he is obliged to sacrifice on one line he must make it up on another. Consequently in the last analysis the ultimate consumer pays. He may get a bargain on a particular purchase, but the next time he buys a standard article, part of the loss incurred in the first sale is absorbed in the price of the second article.

Manufacturers are making studies of the number of styles which carry the bulk of their business. A manufacturer of men's felt hats found that 90 per cent of the business on 3681 styles and colors was done in seven styles and ten colors. He consequently simplified his line and has become a staunch advocate of simplification.

A manufacturer of shoes simplified his line from three grades and 2,500 styles to one grade and 100 styles. Right here the department hastens to say that this does not signify that the manufacturers of women's shoes are planning to curb millady's desire for fancy footwear. The manufacturer will continue to make novelty shoes for the feminine sex. The idea is to make also a standard line which may be sold at a lower price, so that a woman may if she so desires get shoes of standard quality at reasonable cost.

Since there is apt to be a loss in the novelty shoes, the profit must be earned by the standard, and thus the price of the standard is necessarily higher than would be the case otherwise.

Men Like Standard Shoes.

Some manufacturers are doing away entirely with the novelty and confining themselves to the standard. It is much easier to reduce the line of styles of men's shoes because as a rule a man once he finds a shoe which is comfortable, is apt to stick to it. One man says he has been wearing the same make and style shoe for twenty years.

In a great many lines of manufacture the number of varieties has been reduced. Some of the notable examples where there was an unnecessary number of varieties from which to select are verified paving brick, reduced from 66 to 4; beds, springs and mattresses, 78 to 4; hotel chinaware, 700 to 100; files and rasps, 1351 to 456; common brick, 44 to 1; woven fire fence packages, 2072 to 138; hospital bags, 33 to 1; and loaded shells 4076 to 1758. It was discovered that in the last named there were probably more varieties of loaded shells than there were species of birds to kill. The variety of sizes of bed blankets was reduced from 78 to 12.

Many of these changes make it easier not only for the manufacturer but also for the householder. Certainly it would be a relief to be able to go to a shop and ask for a single size sheet and be sure of just what the measurements would be. As it is, there appears to be no standard for such. Making beds a standard size and bed clothing to correspond would undoubtedly simplify matters for the purchaser and reduce the merchants' likelihood of having unsalable stock left on their hands. This same idea applies in many other commodities.

Many have voiced criticism of this policy of standardization. One well known educator made a particularly strong protest, saying that it would handicap progress. Advocates reply that this not so—that it is not the intention of the plan to curb progress in any way. No effort is to be made to discontinue the manufacture of the specialty or novelty product. It is simply to do away with expending effort and time on that which experience has shown is salable to only a very minor percentage of the trade. Its aim is to give the consumer the best possible value for his money. By mass production and simplified practice it is possible for the manufacturer to make a better grade of product for less money, and this reduction in turn is passed along to the consumer.

It is also pointed out that this same educator has practically standardized literature. He has made a selection of books which he considers representative of American literature at its best and these are sold in one lot. By manufacturing these in mass it has been possible to make a price within the reach of the average citizen. Thus he has helped many to become familiar with the best in books who would otherwise not have known what books to read and who also probably could not have afforded to buy them by single copies. In this he has done a big thing.

It is further noted, however, that while this professor criticizes standardization along other lines on the score that it impedes progress, he has made no provision for an increase in the size of his list of representative books. There is no room for any books which may have been written since and which may merit a place with those he recommends.

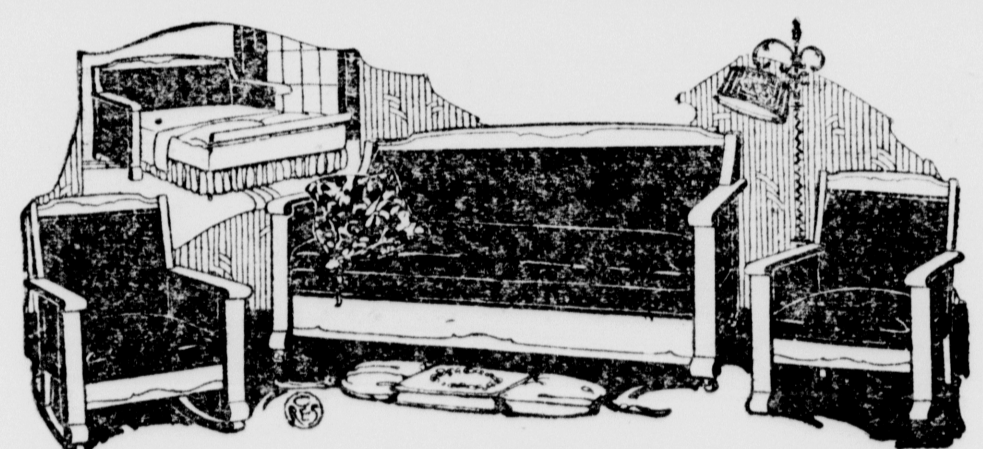

To other criticism that standardization makes it impossible for the individual to express his personality of his tastes, the department of Commerce says that the use of standard materials does not necessarily suppress individuality. The fact that a man uses standard brick does not mean that his house must be exactly like those of all of his neighbors who use the same. His individual taste may be expressed by the architecture—the manner in which this material is used.

This same idea may be applied to a standard grade of material such as blue serge. Individualism is not expressed so much in the grade or weave of the material as in the tailoring.

The manufacturers and distributors of the country are coming more and more to a full appreciation of the effort the government is making to assist them in putting their business on a sound economical basis. Secretary Hoover's policy of putting the government behind business rather than in business has had a decided influence upon business generally and the department's program of simplification is rapidly being accepted as a real contribution of government to industry. This is eliminating the old distrust of any suggestions the government might make concerning business.

LONDON, July 9.—Great Britain refused today to join with Spain in a blockade of the North African coast, as part of a campaign to defeat the rebellious Riffian tribes under Abd-Elkrim.

In a note to the Spanish foreign office, Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister, declined the Spanish request for cooperation in the proposed blockade stating that in British opinion such action at present would merely provoke Abd-Elkrim further.

Jams and Jellies

THERE is no reason today for holding your breath while you wait to see if your jam or jelly is going to set.

When you use Certo there is not the slightest chance of failure.

For Certo is itself the element that makes fruit jelly—taken from the fruits that are richest in it. Some fruits never have this jelling property; in all fruits it grows less as they ripen. So you've often had bad luck before with fully ripe fruit.

But good luck is sure every time when you add Certo. You can use the luscious ripe fruits now.

And you only need to boil the fruit one minute. Think how much time Certo saves you.

Think how much fruit juice it saves you, too, that used to boil away during the long old-fashioned "boiling down." With Certo you make half again as many glasses from your fruit.

Order Certo today from your grocer. A booklet with each bottle gives nearly 100 recipes for delicious jams, jellies and marmalades. Douglas-Pectin Corp., Granite Bldg., Rochester, N. Y.

A WORD FOR BEGINNERS.

The best way to solve a cross-word puzzle is to run quickly over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms and compare them to the spaces in the puzzle extending cross-wise or downward from the number of the synonym. Some word which will just fit in the number of space available will quickly occur to you in some instances, giving you a foundation from which to solve the more difficult words. The words must interlock perfectly.

Great thirst mystery and the two drinks that solved it!

The mystery of thirst is how to quench it—and here's the way that you can solve the mystery. Uncap a bottle of Clicquot Club Ginger Ale. Pour out the ice-chilled, ginger-warmed, bubbling drink . . . That's the fine, full-flavored beverage that, forty years ago, first taught America what real ginger ale tastes like. C. Perhaps you like a milder drink, one that is smooth and subtle, delicate and exhilarating? Then you'll like Clicquot Club Pale Dry, the dry ginger ale that really tastes like ginger ale. C. What makes Clicquot Club Ginger Ale—Regular or Pale Dry—the finest, tastiest, most refreshing drink you ever tasted is one unpatented, but uncopyable, formula. STUDEBAKER
Special Six Coach

Why Call It a Coach?

THEY couldn't understand! "Why call it a coach—why confuse it with cheap closed cars?" asked the dealers at a recent Studebaker meeting. "Surely it would be better to name it the Special Six Coupe."

To be sure, the Special Six Coach is upholstered in fine quality of material—with high-grade carpeting—and heavy decorative door pulls to assist passengers in alighting.

To be sure, it is lacquer finished in two styles—beautiful Studebaker blue or a rich duotone finish of Wyandotte green-gray above and Ponca green-gray below.

And furthermore, to get a coach as large and roomy you must pay more than $1,000 above the price of this car.

But the fact remains—that it carries the lowest price at which a fine closed car has ever been sold on the world-famous Special Six chassis.

It is a coach—in price alone. But in quality—a fine type of five-passenger coupe.

The reason for sedan quality at coach price

Studebaker builds all of its own closed bodies—builds finer coaches than have been built before—and builds them at a lower cost—because there is no outside body-maker's profit to be included in the purchase price to you.

This Special Six Coach is built complete—both body and chassis—in Studebaker plants. It is a "one-profit" automobile.

In buying a closed car, do not underestimate the importance of engine and chassis. With extra weight to carry, these units become increasingly vital.

Plus—the Special Six Chassis

This fine coach body is especially designed for and mounted on the Special Six chassis which has contributed to the splendid reputation of Studebaker cars for dependability, endurance and reserve mileage.

Definite records show that many Studebakers have delivered from 125,000 to 200,000 miles of service. Up in the rugged country around Three Rivers, Quebec, there are eight Studebaker cars that have each traveled 100,000 miles or more.

In Stockton, Calif., one Studebaker car has piled up 138,000 miles over steep mountain grades and rough country roads with negligible upkeep—not a single major part has been purchased or repaired by reason of wear or accident.

So do not buy this Special Six Coach with the expectation that you'll have to trade it in at the end of a year or so. Instead, consider this your permanent investment in transportation. At the mileage when other cars are breaking up, this Studebaker Special Six Coach will just be breaking in.

Buy now—no need to delay

You may buy this Studebaker Special Six Coach today—or on any day of the year—with the confident assurance that no act of ours will stigmatize it as a "last year's model."

For Studebaker has discontinued the custom of presenting a new line of cars each year. Instead Studebaker will keep up-to-date all of the time—introducing new improvements and refinements as their merit is proved through practical use.

STRIKING COAL MINERS FREED

Released on Promise to Refrain From Picketing Mines.

Pledging that they will refrain from picketing about the mines in Marshall county, in violation of court injunctions, a score of miners arraigned before Judge P. L. Morris on charges of contempt of court were given their freedom yesterday.

Officers of the miners' union present in court also asked that the picketing will cease, as there is no desire on their part to have the union men violate the laws, they said.

Captain A. L. Hooten, chief counsel for the plaintiff company, the Mineral State Coal company, told the court that he had no desire to push the cases further if an agreement could be secured to show that the provisions of the court orders would be met. This detail was quickly overcome and Judge Morris ruled that none of the defendants would be required to give bond for further appearance.

However, seven of the defendants were adjudged guilty, and must appear at the next term of court in Mountsville, released on their own recognizance until that time. They were: Charles Nesbitt, Edward C. Lagner, Charles Thompson, J. S. Doty, Bernard Graham, Henry Doty, Leo Vidock.

Charges were dismissed against the following: E. Fallett, Louis Machine, Charles Risko, Theodore Mulrooney, Charles Rice, David Bonar, Sam Budavich, Paul Nieratko, William Boner, Gus Gentis, Alex Meski, Jack Factor and Joe Shoba.

The four men found guilty Tuesday and sentenced to pay fines of $100 and serve 60 days each in the county jail, must serve the sentences imposed, the court ruled.

Laughlin has been strengthened during the idle period and several new faces will be seen when the team takes the field here. "Dutch" Lysie, former star hurler of the Toronto team, has been added to the pitching corps of the Potters and will be ready to take his turn on the mound next week. Chester will take the field with practically the same players that finished out in front during the first half.

Heavy Rain Comes as Boon to Farmers' Crops

Chicago.—Farmers and truck gardeners were smiling after the welcome and profitable downpour, agricultural experts declare. The rainfall, measured by the weather bureau, was 1.5 inches and was the greatest impetus to the hundreds of acres of late field and garden crops which have been planted in the last ten days, according to agricultural reports.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will Help You Safely Through

Convey, Ohio. "During the Change of Life I was weak and run-down and could hardly do my work. By reading your advertisements I found out about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has straightened me right out and made me feel like a new woman. By the time I had taken eight bottles I was well and could do my housework on the farm without trouble. I recommended it to my daughter-in-law after her second baby was born and it did her a wonderful lot of good. I told her to try it and if it didn't help her I would pay for it, and before she had taken one bottle she said to me, 'You won't have to pay for it! It is helping me wonderfully!' And she took three bottles of it. You can use my testimonial if you wish."—Mrs. ELsie ACKERMAN, Convey, Ohio.

Consider carefully Mrs. Ackerman's letter. Her experience ought to help you. She tells of the trials of middle age and the wonderful results she obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Good Cars Come
From Good Dealers

Imagine for a minute that you are buying an interest in a concern dealing in motor cars, wouldn't you make sure that the dealer had a good reputation in the community?

Why is it not good business to take the same precaution in buying a used car? Every investment in the cars we sell, new or used, is an investment in us. So we see that a customer gets the facts about a car before he buys.

I recommended it to my daughter-in-law did her a wonderful lot of good. I told her to try it and if it didn't help her I

REPORT FILED BY RECORDER

Fewer Leases and Deeds Handled Than in Pre- vious Year.

The annual report of County Recorder Myrie Stoffel, which was certified Wednesday, discloses that the office handled fewer deeds and leases than during the fiscal year of 1924, and also that fewer mortgages were cancelled. In the latter instance, however, the report shows that the mortgages cancelled during the current fiscal year represented a value of $628,132.04 greater than the cancellations of a year ago.

However, where 261 farm mortgages were cancelled in 1924, valued at $526,512.51, there were 311 farm mortgages cancelled during the last fiscal year representing a value of $609,200.18.

The report shows that in 1924 there were 1,705 mortgages cancelled on city, town and village lots, representing a value of $2,129,544.58 and the current report shows that only 1,597 such instruments were cancelled, representing a value of $3,703,988.35.

In all, during 1924 there were 1,956 mortgages cancelled representing a valuation of $3,676,056.49, and the 1925 report shows 1,908 mortgages cancelled, representing a valuation of $4,304,188.53.

During the fiscal year of 1924 there were 3,499 deeds recorded representing a total valuation of $5,015,485.33 but in the fiscal year of 1925 this business declined to 3,096 instruments, or 401 less than the previous report, and representing a valuation of $3,836,957.56.

This section of the report shows there were 352 deeds recorded for farm lands, representing 8,414.93 acres, the average price per acre being listed at $77.24.

With 114 leases being filed during the last year, or 42 less than during the term of the fiscal report of 1924, the consideration involved in the leases totals $415,705, as against $1,121,578 represented in the 156 leases recorded during the fiscal year of 1924.

During the last fiscal year only 53 leases on mineral, oil and other lands were recorded, covering 4,080.24 acres, the consideration being placed at $1 per lease. There were 61 leases on city, town and village lots recorded during the last year, the consideration mentioned in these instruments being placed at $415.652.

There was recorded 357 farm mortgages during the last year, covering 16,575.49 acres, and the value represented at $3,357,976.72. During the last year there were recorded 2,078 mortgages on city, town and village lots valued at $4,950,880.90.

The decline in the recording of instruments in the office of the county recorder is claimed to be due solely to the fact that business conditions generally speaking, held back the buying and selling and also leasing of properties.

Chattel mortgage business continues as active as ever if not more so, and this section of the business of the office is equal to that of former years.

CATTLE BREEDERS ELECT OFFICERS

At a meeting of the Holstein Breeders' association held in the office of the county farm bureau, Ed Canfield of East Palestine was elected president and Harry Chadwick of the Firestone farm, Cox highway, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The association has arranged to have its annual cutting this year August 13 at the Firestone farm, although this date may be changed.

There will be a judging demonstration during the cutting and a representative of the State Holstein association is expected to address the gathering.

TWO DANCING PERMITS ISSUED

But two owners of dance halls have appeared before Probate Judge Lodge seeking permits under a new law which became effective June 10. These are P. A. Kelly, operating Kelly's park on the Leontia-Columbiana road, and William A. Powell, in charge of Lincoln Gardens on the Lincoln highway near Brown's bridge.

In the former case a permanent permit has been granted by the court, but in the case of the Lincoln Gardens a permit for five nights only has been issued.

Owners of several other dancing places have written the court for permits but unless these applicants appear before the court in person, no permits will be issued.

The court insists that a series of questions be answered and this information will be kept on file for the future reference of the court.

Action Filed.
The First National Bank of East Palestine, through its counsel Walter W. Beck, of Lisbon, has filed a petition in common pleas court against F. C. Kinnear for a money judgment, foreclosure and equitable relief. The plaintiff claims there is due on notes secured by mortgage on certain lands a total of $7,531.19.

To Pay Freight.
The County Commissioners have made an agreement with the trustee of Centre township to pay half the freight on six cars of slag to be used on the Logtown road, extending from the east end of the Canton bridge north to the Tegarden road. The slag will be spread over the road by property owners.

Woman Given Divorce.

Charging her husband with gross neglect of duty, Marie Harmon has obtained a divorce in common pleas court against her husband, Denver Harmon. The court rested the plaintiff to her maiden name, that of Marie Chambers.

A marriage license has been issued to Percy Bowdler and Miss Eleanor Canavan, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Canavan of East Liverpool. They are to be married by the Rev. Walsh of East Liverpool.

Clarence McLean and Miss Edna Felton, both of Salineville, have obtained a marriage license. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Christian church by the Rev. J. M. Bennett.

Pouring Concrete.

Allison and Harris, contractors of East Liverpool, who have the contract for improving a mile of the East Palestine-Negley road have begun to pour concrete. In the opinion of County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, the job will be finished within three weeks.

Case Appealed.

Wilbert A. Husted, against whom a judgment for $50 and costs was returned following a trial in the court of Justice of the Peace M. E. Gill, of East Liverpool, in a case filed against him by Fanny Harvey, has appealed to common pleas his bond of $200 being signed by William F. Johnson.

CATTLE BREEDERS ELECT OFFICERS

At a meeting of the Holstein Breeders' association held in the office of the county farm bureau, Ed Canall of East Palestine was elected president and Harry Chadwick of the Firestone farm, Cox highway, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The association has arranged to have its annual outing this year August 13 at the Firestone farm, although this date may be changed.

There will be a judging demonstration during the outing and a representative of the State Holstein association is expected to address the gathering.

TWO DANCING PERMITS ISSUED

But two owners of dance halls have appeared before Probate Judge Lodge Kiedle seeking permits under a new law which became effective June 10. These are P. A. Kelly, operating Kelly's park on the Leetonia-Columbiana road, and William A. Powell, in charge of Lincoln Gardens on the Lincoln highway near Brown's bridge.

In the former case a permanent permit has been granted by the court, but in the case of the Lincoln Gardens a permit for five nights only has been issued.

Owners of several other dancing places have written the court for permits but unless these applicants appear before the court in person, no permits will be issued.

The court insists that a series of questions be answered and this information will be kept on file for the future reference of the court.

Action Filed.

The First National Bank of East Palestine, through its counsel Walter W. Beck of Lisbon, has filed a petition in common pleas court against F. C. Kinnear for a money judgment, foreclosure and equitable relief. The plaintiff claims there is due on notes secured by mortgage on certain lands a total of $7,531.19.

To Pay Freight.

The County Commissioners have made an agreement with the trustees of Centre township to pay half the freight on six cars of slag to be used on the Logtown road, extending from the east end of the Canton bridge north to the Teegarden road. The slag will be spread over the road by property owners.

Industrial League Clubs Resume Hostilities This Afternoon

Three Clashes This Week Will Usher in Second Half Battle

Trotters and Babcock Wilcox Clubs Will Tilt Lid in First Skirmish Tonight at Klondyke; Two More Encounters are Slated for Friday; Teams Add Strength During July 4 Intermission.

Three contests scheduled for the present week will mark the resumption of hostilities in the second half of the City Industrial League season.

Frank Riley's Chester nine, having topped the bunting for the opening section of the schedule, is out to win again and is fairly reeking with confidence that the club will again turn the trick.

Two other clubs are firm in the belief that the West Virginians will not repeat.

Practically all the teams of the circuit have strengthened their rosters during the brief Fourth of July intermission. Particularly is this true of the Wellsville U. & P. Railroad outfit and the Babcock & Wilcox aggregation.

The Wellsville tossers did the unexpected in defeating the champion Chester crew in the final tilt of the first half.

With Bill Mundy, Ray Buzzard and the veteran Pete Eck on deck the Klondyke contingent expects to land higher in the race than it did last week.

K. T. K. Laughlin and Trotter are considered by many as leading contenders for the flag in the windup half. Wellsville and B. & W. expect to be in the fight all the way. As a result, league fans may reasonably anticipate a hectic struggle.

The schedule for the week follows:

Tonight—Trotter and B. & W. at Klondyke

Friday—Laughlin at Chester; K. T. & K. at Wellsville.

PIPP REPORTED TO BE IMPROVING

NEW YORK, July 9.—Although still confined to St. Vincent's hospital with a slight brain concussion, Wally Pipp, veteran Yankee infielder, was said today to be steadily improving and probably will be able to leave the institution next week. Last Night's Fights

Cleveland—Pete Sarineto, Filipino boxer, outpointed Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, World's bantamweight champion, ten rounds. Johnny Drew, Boston, won from Johnny Datto, of Manila, ten rounds. Gaston Charles, France, won from Johnny Moore, Canton, six rounds.

Heilmann hit two homers and the Tigers hit two chins, both of which belonged to the Red Sox. Scores 5 to 0 and 8 to 2.

The Braves were stopped by Mails, after winning five straight, the left handed gent holding them scoreless until the final inning, 5 to 4. The Braves got sixteen hits.

Will Tunney and Wills Meet or Dodge Each Other?

Gene Tunney is sitting pretty in the fistie spotlight due to his victory over the much touted Tommy Gibbons. Harry Wills' knockout victory over Charley Weinert has given him a better claim to the right to meet Jack Dempsey. A match between Tunney and Wills is a logical one. Will they meet or take on other comers for a while before risking their newly earned reps?

BASEBALL LOOP ASSET TO CITY

Newell Club Calls for Continued Support of Fans.

Sport Editor, Review-Tribune.

Dear Sir:

The East Liverpool City Baseball League swings into the second half of its schedule today under very favorable circumstances. We say this because, in our opinion, the games during the first half have drawn larger and more enthusiastic crowds of spectators than has been the rule heretofore. Those who have been instrumental in getting the league under way and those who are giving of their time to officer the affair are deserving of the commendation of all who are interested in this community. The league is of a real and distinct value, and a decided asset to this community because it furnishes open air recreation and fun for thousands of our citizens who would otherwise have nothing to entertain them and give them an opportunity to profitably while away an hour or so of an evening, two or three times each week. The quality of play this season has been decidedly faster, better teams are in this league, better morale obtains, and the teams are ably handled by men who have been successful in securing good results. When considering this factor, remember that the postponed and forfeited games have been at a minimum. And that CHESTER TEAM—it was a fine thing for local baseball when the folks of that lust-ling community roused themselves and decided to place a team in the field! They have done fine there and they have what each team desires—hundreds of loyal, enthusiastic, rooters—those CHESTER ROOTERS, we take our hats off to them—they are a real bunch with the sort of rooting and loyalty to their team that just simply compels them to win. Of course, each team of this circuit is expecting to win the second half. So is Laughlin China, with such keen rivalry, those who love baseball can expect to see some real games.

Now, Mr. Editor, the fans can render valuable assistance and aid to the promotion of local sport by a continuation of their attendance, rooting and general support. We open tomorrow evening at Chester, where no doubt another real crowd will be present. We bespeak, in the interest of the game, a continuation of the fine rooting, large attendance, courtesy to players and umpires, sportsmanlike playing by players, and support of the press, all of which has characterized the games thus far. All teams are ready for the bell.

Very truly yours,

LAUGHLIN CHINA BASEBALL CLUB

BANTAM CHAMP'S CROWN SHAKEN

CLEVELAND, July 9.—Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, of New York, wears his world's bantamweight crown today only because of the fact that no decision was rendered in his bout with Pete Sarineto, from the Philippines. In the opinion of those who watched the bout, Sarineto gave the champion a decisive beating. The seventh was the only one of the ten rounds in which Rosenberg outpointed his opponent. The fight was a clean one throughout, both men battling fiercely. In the semifinal, Johnny Drew, of Boston, won decisively from Johnny Datto, also a Filipino.

NORTH RANDALL, O., July 9.—With two rich purses, each of $5,000, hung up in the summer meet of the Grand circuit here, this afternoon, some of the best horses in the country were to battle it out for first honors. The Ohio 298 trot and the Taven stake 2:12 trot were the feature events, with a 2:10 trot for a purse of $1,200 also carded.

The Fasig sweepstakes with $1,000 added, for three-year old trotters, was won yesterday by Worthy Harvester, defeating the favorite, Gordon Dillon, and paying backers 27 to 1.

In the 2:12 trot, another long shot, Tennis, won in straight heats, paying backers 34 to 1.

The junior drivers' race went to Czarina Gale, and lucky bettors cashed at 15 to 1.

Norman Grattan, an even money favorite, won the 2:12 pace, which completed the card.

BRITISH TRACK STARS ON EDGE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 9.—"The Cambridge Oxford track team athletes who will engage with the Harvard-Yale representatives in a dual track meet at the Harvard stadium Saturday afternoon, are in good condition and expect to make a creditable showing," declared Lord David Burghley, English hurdler and titled member of the visiting team, to International News service today.

"We are very much impressed with the stadium track," Lord Burghley said. "It is in excellent condition and is very fast."

The visitors, who are staying at a Swampscott hotel, near the summer home of President Coolidge, awaiting the approach of the track meet, spend a good share of their time bathing in the waters of the Atlantic.

Ask Walker to Tell Why He Wants Shade Bout In California

Commission Calls Champ to Carpet; Blow is Aimed at Kearns, to Force Show-down on Dempsey-Wills Argument.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, July 9.—The series of weekly endurance contests between the New York state athletic commission and John Leo Kearns, eminent collector of rare and well done coins, will be resumed today, with jaunty Jack punch paralyzed and ready for the count. He has traded haymakers and found that he has given away too much weight.

Today infighting will be centered around the Walker-Shade match for the welterweight title, but Dempsey and Wills will remain the abiding issue, and sooner or later either Kearns or the commission will be forced into the open with their hands up.

Kearns is certain to lose today's decision. He must remain in the outer darkness while Walker is summoned on the carpet to explain why he is trying to take his frolic with Shade to Vernon, Calif., when local sentiment declares that the affair will have bigger and better dollars here. The proceedings will be exceedingly embarrassing to Kearns.

He is being placed in the position of accepting 50 per cent of a fighter's earnings in order that the latter may manage himself.

A little more of that kind of thing and Kearns will be forced to the inevitable show-down whereby he must either accept Wills' deft on behalf of Dempsey or admit that the latter will not or cannot fight the colored man.

In either case, Kearns will be reinstated, pronto, and can proceed with the management of Walker in this locality.

For the commission's part, acceptance of the Wills' challenge may prove something of a backfire. It would be forced then to go through the formality of having something happen to a bout that will not be held now or forever henceforth.

Whereas, if Dempsey can be made to retire officially or Kearns be constrained to throw his heavyweight champion overboard in order to trim ship, great will be the commission's popularity in Harlem and the line of colored voters will form on the left.

Actually, the board has no authority to force Walker to fight Shade in New York. The original agreement was that the commission would

BOLES SHOOTS COURSE IN 64

WOOSTER, O., July 9.—L. C. Boles, mentor of the Wooster college athletic teams for the past ten years, is now known as "The Old Master" of the Wooster Country club golf course. Boles won his new title by playing 18 holes in 64.

The Wooster coach accomplished the feat by turning in a 32, a mark never beaten in the course and then repeating the performance. He has played the course in 32 twice before but always followed with a 36 or 38.

The mark of 32 is par for the course and to play it means perfect golf. To do it twice in succession is a real feat and golfers are predicting that it will be many a day before any one equals the Boles' 64.

This statement from the young race driver, who purchased a Buick a week after he wheeled his car to victory at Indianapolis and broke the record of that famous Speedway, sums up the nation-wide opinion of Buick.

For, just as DePaolo recognizes the superiority of valve-in-head engines for the race track and personal use, so too have more than a million everyday motorists recognized the dependability and performance of Buick and the Valve-in-Head type of engine upon which Buick has concentrated for 21 years.

De Paolo bought a new Buick with the motor car expert's discriminating eye for performance, for dependability and genuine value. And his purchase is further evidence of the regard in which Buick is so universally held.

Proof that another old landmark is passing—passing almost beyond the view of the rest of the field—was given when Coveslesko won his eleventh victory of the season in pitching the Senators to a 10 to 2 decision over the White Sox.

Our Mr. Ruth's seventh homer of the season aided and abetted the Yankees in gaining a 5 to 4 victory over the Browns. Hoy's relief pitching in the last two innings saving the situation.

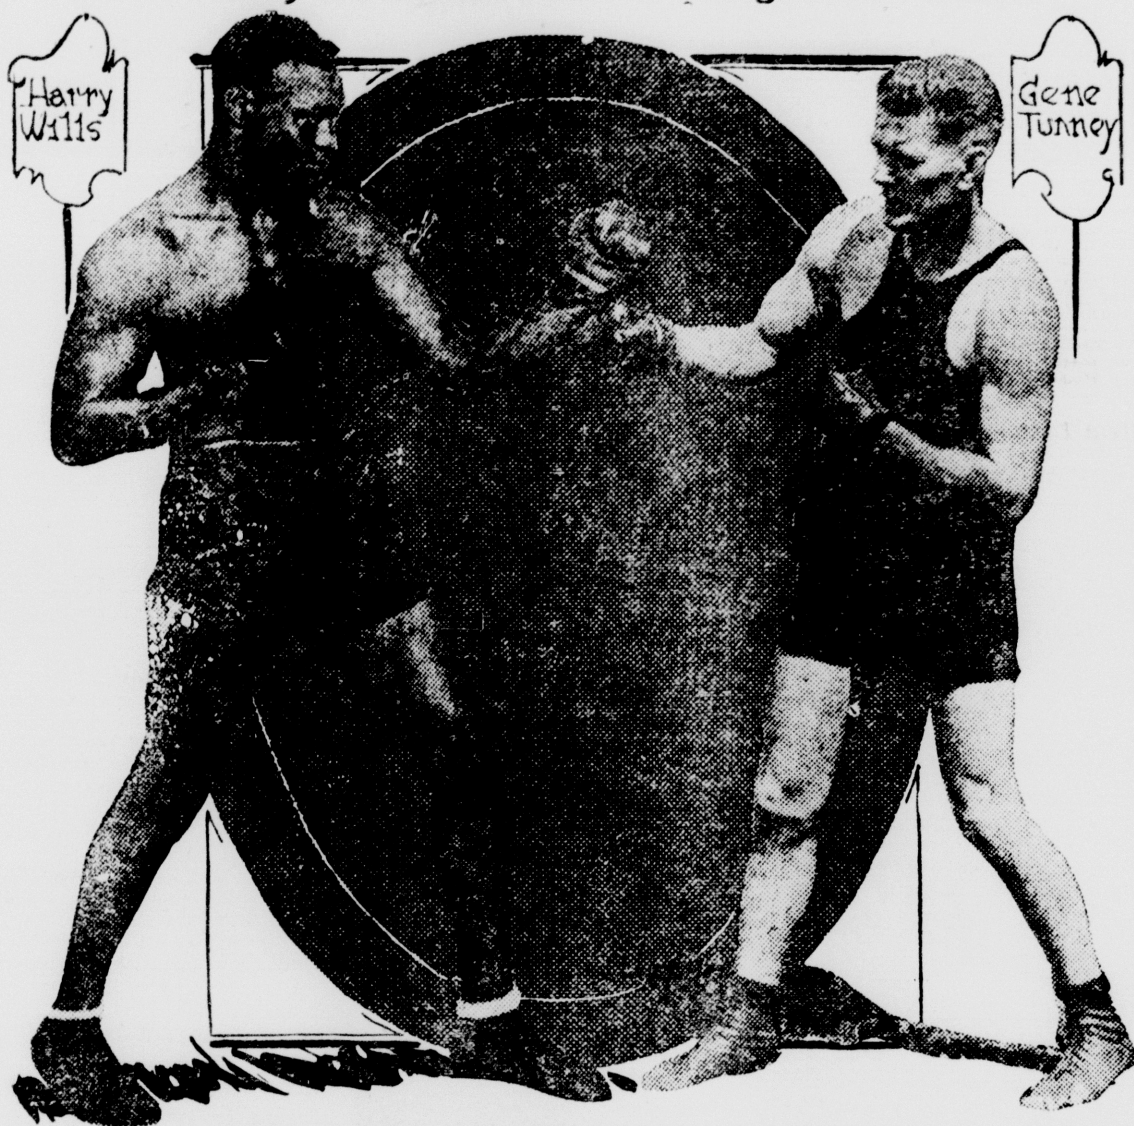

In one hectic inning, the fifth, the Indians scored ten runs off Heimach and Baumgartner and won the first of two games from the Athletics, 14 to 3.

Then the Macks turned around and won the second, 7 to 5, behind the superior pitching of Rommel.

This statement from the young race driver, who purchased a Buick a week after he wheeled his car to victory at Indianapolis and broke the record of that famous Speedway, sums up the nation-wide opinion of Buick.

For, just as DePaolo recognizes the superiority of valve-in-head engines for the race track and personal use, so too have more than a million everyday motorists recognized the dependability and performance of Buick and the Valve-in-Head type of engine upon which Buick has concentrated for 21 years.

De Paolo bought a new Buick with the motor car expert's discriminating eye for performance, for dependability and genuine value. And his purchase is further evidence of the regard in which Buick is so universally held.

William Vanderbilt's Yacht at Stockholm; Will be Overhauled

STOCKHOLM—In order to get equipped with a new set of Swedish built Polar Diesel engines, William K. Vanderbilt's motor-yacht Ara has just arrived here, after traveling about 3,500 miles across the Atlantic from New York, making the trip under its own power, in sixteen days.

Originally built in France early in the war for a highly placed diplomat, the boat was later requisitioned for anti-submarine patrol duty, and in 1922 the vessel was purchased by M. Vanderbilt. Since then it has traveled, in different parts of the world, about 50,000 miles, and the old motors functioned so well that the owner decided to have installed another set of the same type, only faster. Instead of from twelve to thirteen knots, the Ara will in the future make sixteen, each of the new motors being capable of developing 850 horsepower. They are the largest ever installed by the Flindoda company here, and the work will take about four months.

Stenographers of Argentine prefer typewriters from this country although those from Europe are cheaper.

TURTLE? NO!

This is a sample bedbug that may be found in this section of the state. Should you find them during house cleaning time don't worry, as it is easy to rid them with the use of the New Chemical P. D. Q. (Pecky Devils Quilts).

No matter how large they may be, color or sex or where they came from P. D. Q. will kill them and their eggs as if liquid fire had hit them.

Not an insect powder, no dust or mist; will not injure clothing, and will actually kill Mosquitoes, Fleas, Lice, Bed Bugs, Flies and Ants and puts an everlasting to the Pecky Devils, as it destroys future generations. Impossible for them to exist with its proper use.

Get from your Druggist's a 50c package; this will make a quart; each package contains a patent sprayer to get them in the hard-to-get-at places. P. D. Q. can also be purchased in liquid form in a handy bottle with patent sprayer in each package.

Sold by Mathews Med. Store, Herche's Drug Company and John I. Hodson Drug Company.

William Vanderbilt's Yacht at Stockholm; Will be Overhauled

STOCKHOLM—In order to get equipped with an new set of Swedish built Polar Diesel engines, William K. Vanderbilt's motor-yacht Ara has just arrived here, after traveling about 3,500 miles across the Atlantic from New York, making the trip under its own power, in sixteen days.

Originally built in France early in the war-time for a highly placed diplomat, the boat was later requisitioned for anti-submarine patrol duty, and in 1922 the vessel was purchased by M. Vanderbilt. Since then it has traveled, in different parts of the world, about 50,000 miles, and the old motors functioned so well that the owner decided to have installed another set of the same type, only faster. Instead of from twelve to thirteen knots, the Ara will in the future make sixteen, each of the new motors being capable of developing 850 horsepower. They are the largest ever installed by the Flm-boda company here, and the work will take about four months.

John D. Rockefeller, 86 years old yesterday, played his usual round of golf, quite content with 43 for nine holes, and with his milk and seltzer, toast and perhaps two ounces of meat.

It is hard for some to realize that golf, exercise that anybody can take with a stick and a round pebble, not more than 20 cents' worth of food a day and a bed to sleep in are all that Mr. Rockefeller gets from his great fortune.

Alexander the Great, rebuking complaining generals that wanted to go home, held up his imperial purple cloak and said, "I have made you all rich. This is all I have got from my work." John D. Rockefeller hasn't got even a purple cloak.

What will history say of John D. Rockefeller, whose work and success better than that of any other man, with the possible exception of Henry Ford, typifies this industrial age?

He will be praised for the good example that he has set for other rich men, giving literally hundreds of millions to education, science and public health and other millions, not nearly as many, to religion.

And he will be praised because he has never set a bad example of ostentation and extravagance to embitter the poor.

There will be talk of his vast fortune, the extent of which he knows little, most of which he probably gave long ago to his son to be rid of the nuisance. The Rockefellers have untold millions stored under the ground. They can't know how many.

All that has been mentioned except the contributions to knowledge will be forgotten in 500 years. But 1,000 years hence, histories will still carry the picture of John D. Rockefeller and will say of him: "This is the man who proved competition to be wasteful and unnecessary."

CHILD'S SCALP TORN BY DOG

Robert, 2, Son of William S. Story Seriously Injured.

William S. Story, Chester, clerk at the J. C. Penney company store, has returned from Valley City, North Dakota, where he was called by the serious condition of his two-year-old son, Robert, who was bitten by a dog last week.

Mrs. Story and her child had been spending the summer with relatives at Valley City. The child was playing with a large shepherd dog when the animal bit him on the head, its teeth tearing open the boy's scalp.

The child was taken to the hospital where the wound was cauterized and sewed. Twenty-two stitches were required to close the gash. The child is now on the road to recovery.

CONDITION GRAVE

Accident Occurs at Neighbor's Home in Wellsville.

Little Icy Stalling, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Stalling of 1907 Chester avenue, Wellsville, is in a critical condition in the City hospital today, fighting with all her tiny strength to retain the spark of life which threatens to die away entirely as a result of a seven-foot fall from a second story veranda yesterday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock.

The child toppled over backward from the porch while playing with several other youngsters and the back of her head struck the pavement beneath. Her skull was fractured.

Dr. H. D. Beaumont, who was summoned immediately, rushed the child to the hospital here and within a short time after their arrival performed an operation on the baby's skull—the one chance, he said, to keep the tiny patient alive. Dr. C. H. Bailey and Dr. J. W. Chetwynd assisted in the operation.

Hospital authorities at noon today announced that signs of a slight improvement in the child's condition were visible.

The little girl, it is said, was playing on the porch of the residence adjoining her own home, and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Holliday.

The porch had no railing.

Drivers of the two machines responsible for the crash were arrested by Northeast officials and released under $1,000 bond pending an investigation.

EMBASSY NOTE

American Urges Parley
on Extra-Territorial-ity Question.

BY DAVID M. CHURCH.
LONDON, July 9.—The United States wishes to bring no pressure for an immediate conference seeking abolition of extra-territorial rights in China.

Nor is the United States worried over the fact that Great Britain and Japan are exchanging notes over policy in China.

These were the principal points made in a statement issued at the American embassy today. At the same time, it was understood that William Perkins, representative of the state department at present in London, was satisfied with the British policy and saw no possibility of Great Britain differing with the United States regarding the rights of the powers in China.

Perkins refused to talk, but his views were understood to be reflected in the amiable statement of the embassy.

Willing to Wait.

The American representations, urging a conference to discuss extra-territoriality as provided in the Washington agreements, have been made through usual diplomatic channels, but no note has been presented, it was stated at the embassy.

The United States is not insisting on an immediate conference, but is willing to wait for a more suitable time, it was stated.

Looting of the E. L. Green grocery and two other East End robberies were cleared up last night with the arrest of William McCracken, 19, of Harker avenue, police claim.

Pleading guilty to a charge of breaking and entering, he was held for action by the Columbiana county grand jury under $1,000 bond. He was unable to furnish bond and will be taken to Lisbon this afternoon.

Police say that young McCracken not only admitted he robbed the Green grocery, Tuesday night, but also confessed he entered the Kerr Lumber company garage, last Saturday night, and broke into an automobile painting establishment on Pennsylvania avenue, near Boyce street, about a week ago.

Cashier Notifies Police.
Young McCracken's arrest followed his attempt yesterday afternoon to cash a check, alleged to have been taken from the Green grocery, at the Federal Savings & Loan, East End. A. L. White, cashier, became suspicious when the young man tendered the check and stepped to the telephone to communicate with Green. As he did so the young man picked up the check and fled, it is said.

White recognized McCracken and

The Kiwanis club, at its noon meeting in the Larkins annex today, pledged its support to the proposed Salvation Army budget campaign for $2,000, which will be conducted next week.

This action was taken after W. A. Weaver reported that both the Lions and the Rotary clubs had voted their endorsement of the drive. A volunteer committee of 10 workers was named to assist in the solicitation of funds.

About a dozen or more members of the Girard Kiwanis club who are here today for a baseball game with the local Kiwanis also were guests at the meeting. The game was to be played at Columbian park, East End, beginning at 3 o'clock.

Frank G. Jones, of the Ohio Valley Oil company, chairman of the inter-city relations committee, announced plans for an intercity meeting of the Wellsville and East Liverpool clubs at Wellsville, Tuesday evening, July 14.

W. Frank Lones, member of the law firm, Lones, Hill and Davidson, served two terms as mayor of Dayton, Tennessee, now the center of nation-wide interest because John Scopes, a high school teacher, defied the state's anti-evolution law, which said "man descended from a lower form of animal."

The sleepy southern town, now boasting of a population of 1,500, was a bustling city of 6,000 souls when Lones, occupied the mayor's chair, he said today.

That was 35 years ago.
In 1890 shortly after he began the practice of law, Lones went to Tennessee in search of a place to locate. He made his first stop in Chattanooga, but when he looked the field

A six room, two story frame dwelling and its contents, owned and occupied by Ray Justison, on the old estate road, back of the Neville Institute, upper end of East End, was destroyed by fire at 1:30 o'clock this morning. The loss is estimated at $6,000, partially covered by insurance.

Members of the family were away for the night and neighbors discovered the fire. The house was doomed when the firemen arrived. The firemen were forced to lay several hundred feet of hose to reach the blaze. The origin of the fire has not been determined.

HERE IS LAW SCOPES TESTS

DAYTON, Tenn., July 9.—Here is Tennessee's anti-evolution law, which will be tested in the trial of John T. Scopes:

"Section 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee that it shall be unlawful for any teacher in any of the universities, normal and all other public schools of the State, which are supported in whole or in part by the public school funds of the State, to teach any theory that denies the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible, and to teach instead that man descended from a lower order of animals."

Constable is Held For Grand Jury on Charges of Assault

Lawrence Chamberlain, St. Clair township, was held for action by the Columbiana county grand jury by Justice Maude E. Gill, yesterday afternoon, upon two charges of assault with intent to kill, sworn to by Mrs. Edward Foulks and her son, Albert Foulks, both of Calcutta. Bond was fixed at $1,000 on each charge, which friends of the defendant furnished.

The charges were filed as the result of attacks alleged to have been made upon Mrs. Foulks and her son, when the former attempted to arrest Mrs. Foulks about a week ago. It is alleged that the constable struck Mrs. Foulks, and when her son went to her rescue, he was hit on the head by the officer. Both Mrs. Foulks and her son required medical attention as a result of the attack, it is alleged.

SCOPES' ARMY MASSES HEAVY ARTILLERY FOR "APE LAW" TEST

Battle Will be Fought

Grounds.

DARROW ARRIVES

W. J. Bryan Awaits
Call for Prosecution
at Dayton, Tenn.

DAYTON, Tenn., July 9.—The "legal battle of the century" with its epochal effect on Christianity, science and public education, will be fought out on constitutional grounds under a defense program completed today by local counsel for John Thomas Scopes, defendant in Tennessee's anti-evolution test case.

As strong legal re-enforcements are rushing here from the North a final touch will be given the battle plan after the arrival this afternoon of Clarence Darrow, Dudley Field Malone and Arthur Garfield Hayes, the associated counsel.

Plans for Defense.
Its heavy artillery, however, will attack the law as unconstitutional on the ground that it fails to "cherish science" and denies the "freedom of thought, worship and conscience," as guaranteed in the state and federal constitutions.

In its present form, the plan includes three steps:

1.—A motion to quash the indictment of Scopes on constitutional grounds.

2.—A trial defense on the contention that evolution does not conflict with the Divine creation of man, thus nullifying the law and.

3.—An appeal through the state supreme court to the United States supreme court on constitutional grounds if the motion is denied or Scopes convicted by a jury.

While the defense waited for its re-

HUSBAND HELD FOR SHOOTING

Gladys Boney, Former Local Girl, His Alleged Victim.

CANTON, July 9.—Charles Boney was arrested today by local police on a warrant charging him with shooting his wife, Gladys Boney, at their home during a quarrel over a month ago. Police have been searching for him ever since the day of the shooting. Mrs. Boney tried to shield her husband at the time by saying the bullet was fired by a man whom she had refused to give a drink of liquor.

Mrs. Boney, a former East Liverpool girl, is a daughter of Mrs. Anna Freeland, Woodlawn avenue. She is in the Mercy hospital, Canton, suffering from two bullet wounds in the abdomen, alleged by the police to have been inflicted by Boney.

The shooting took place in a confectionery conducted by the couple at 1911 Tenth street, Canton, Sunday, May 24.

DAYTON, TENN., READY FOR "BATTLE OF CENTURY," TO TEST BAN ON EVOLUTION; FIGHT GREW OUT OF COUNTRY DRUG STORE ARGUMENT

(Editor's note.—The Scopes anti-evolution trial opens in Dayton, Tenn., tomorrow. In the following article the history of the case is traced.)

BY WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

DAYTON, Tenn., July 9.—A chance argument in a country drug store developed into the "battle of the century," which opens here tomorrow when John Thomas Scopes, a 24-year-old high school instructor, goes on trial for alleged violation of Tennessee's anti-evolution law.

Out of that careless debate and the admitted desire of George W. Rappleyea, a young civil engineer and one of the debaters, to "put Dayton on the map," there has grown a national issue. Before it is finally decided ed the United States supreme court may lay down for future generations a legal guarantee of educational freedom to rank alongside the constitutional guarantees of religious liberty and the emancipation proclamation of Abraham Lincoln.

Four young men, one of them Scopes, participated in that far-reaching drug store argument. It was he who started it by commencing on the newly enacted anti-evolution law, just passed by the Tennessee legislature. The law forbade any teacher to "teach any theory that denies the story of the divine creation of man as taught in the Bible."

Biology Book Basis.
"I don't see how any man can teach biology without violating that law," said young Scopes. "I don't see how I can teach from Hunter's 'Civie Biology' without bringing in evolution."

To prove his point, Scopes got a copy of the book and read to his companions the following passage:

"Geology teaches that millions of years ago life upon the earth was very simple and that more and more complex forms of life appeared in time."

"The great English scientist, Charles Darwin, from this and other evidence, explained the theory of evolution. This is the belief that simple forms of life on the earth slowly and gradually gave rise to those more complex and that thus ultimately the most complex forms came into existence."

When Scopes finished, his friend, Dr. Rappleyea, arose to say:

"Any man teaching from that book is guilty of violating the law. Why, Scopes, you're violating the law, and we ought to make a test out of this thing to show the law is unconstitutional."

The other two debaters—Wallace C. Haggard and Sue K. Hicks, young lawyers—said the same thing. "And we'll help to prosecute you," they added.

This was born the Scopes trial and the test of Tennessee's Anti-Evolution law. Rappleyea swore out a warrant; young Scopes was arrested and released on his own recognizance to await a preliminary magistrate's hearing. He obtained the services of Judge John L. Godsey, a Dayton lawyer, to represent him.

Famous Lawyers Engaged.

At the preliminary hearing Scopes was bound over for the grand jury under $1,000 bond. His friend, Rappleyea was the plaintiff, and his other two friends, Haggard and Hicks, had prosecuted him. They all thought it was good fun.

In the meantime, the little fire ignited in the village courtroom had spread across America. William Jennings Bryan, one of the nation's leading fundamentalists as well as a thrice leader of the Democratic party, came to Memphis and, in a speech, upheld the anti-evolution law, while offering his services to the state in the prosecution of the Scopes case. His offer was accepted.

This spurred the defense. Rappleyea, although the technical prosecutor, was the champion of the defense. He immediately sought additional legal aid for his friend. His problem was solved when Clarence Darrow, the great Chicago criminal lawyer, and Dudley Field Malone, of New York and Paris, volunteered their services and were welcomed into the defense fold.

Some time later, Balmbridge Colby, former Secretary of State and a constitutional lawyer, was added to the defense array, but yesterday he announced his withdrawal. And then Ben G. Mackenzie, attorney general of Tennessee, took charge of the prosecution.

Scopes Believes in Bible.

In the meantime, a move was launched in Chattanooga to initiate a test case there, because "Dayton was too small to hold the crowds certain to be attracted."

This aroused Dayton's civic pride to fever heat. Resolutions were adopted at a town meeting denouncing Chattanooga's citizenry. Fearful that the limelight might yet be stolen, Dayton

SAFETY DRIVE IS LAUNCHED

Motor Club Co-operates With Sheriff in Testing Brakes.

In a campaign to establish greater safety on the highways, testing of automobile headlights and brakes began throughout Columbiana county today, as a result of a program sponsored by the Columbiana County Motor club, co-operating with the sheriff's office.

Faulty brakes and improperly focused headlights while blind drivers of cars, approaching from opposite directions, are responsible for a large percentage of automobile accidents. The necessary adjustments may be made without charge at any garage before the car is submitted for an official test.

The tests will be made at the ten official A. A. service stations in Columbiana county. These garages are: McElravy Brothers, East Liverpool; Standard, Wellsville; Salmeyville, London; Crubaugh, Lisbon; Columbia, Leetonia; Studebaker, Columbiana; Horton & Labor, East Palestine; Square Deal, Salem, and Slagel, Damascus.

In East Liverpool, McElravy Brothers are being assisted by the Harris-Buick company, the Ohio Motor Sales company, Ceramic Motor company, Doak and Labor, East End; Columbia and Lincoln garages.

Certificates will be issued for each car which meets the requirements, and not continuing with the state law regarding headlights and brakes, will subject the operator to a fine of $25 for the first offense.

enforcements, Dayton was agog with excitement, the eve of the trial found hundreds of visitors pouring into the dry mountain town, with newspapermen and photographers in the van. All industry virtually was suspended except the feverish activity to complete preparations for the trial.

The prosecution, headed by William Jennings Bryan, marked time awaiting the call to the courtroom. They announced their willingness to meet the defenders of Scopes on constitutional grounds but asserted the case involved a broader issue of defending Christianity against the assaults of science.

The first defense move, a motion to quash the indictment, it was learned, will be based entirely on constitutional questions. The motion, already drawn by local counsel, alleges the law has violated six distinct sections of the Tennessee Constitution and three amendments to the federal constitution.

Defense's "Big Guns."

A technical error in the law also has been attacked. This slip, which refers to "the theory of evolution" in the title and to "any theory of evolution" in the text, it is contended, violates the state constitutional provision that "no bill shall become a law which embraces more than one subject, that subject to be expressed in the title."

The "big gun" in the defense artillery will be the following provisions of the Tennessee constitution.

1—Section 12, article 2: "It shall be the duty of the general assembly in all future periods of this government to cherish literature and science."

2—Section 3, article 1: "That all men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own conscience—that no human authority can in any case interfere with the rights of conscience and that no preference shall ever be given by law to any religious establishment or mode of worship."

3—Section 19, article 1: "The free communication of thoughts and opinions is one of the invaluable rights of man and every citizen may freely speak, write and print on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty."

4—Section 8, article 1: "No man shall be deprived of his freehold, his privileges or in any manner destroyed—of his property, but by the judgment of his peers and the law of the land." (Involving the disbarment of Scopes as a teacher).

Other Questions Raised.

The other state constitutional questions raised involve charges that both the law and Scopes' indictment were "so indefinite as not to enable the defendant to know what is forbidden." One whole section of the motion deals with this subject.

Three charges of violations of the federal constitution were written into the motion. These involved the fifth and sixth amendments and the first section of the fourteenth amendment.

If their motion is defeated and Scopes convicted, two distinct appeals will be carried clear to the nation's highest court on these same constitutional grounds. They form the actual legal battle ground of the anti-evolution case.

persuaded Circuit Judge John T. Raulston to call a special session of the Rhea county grand jury to indict Scopes. This was done on May 25 and the trial set for July 10.

Scopes, the center of the controversy, is a mild-mannered youth. He cannot be classed as a radical, and he is a firm believer in the Bible and the Christian religion. On the other hand, he has just as firm opinions on the right and free speech and free thought and on the theory of evolution.

He was born in Salem, Ill., which was also the birthplace of William Jennings Bryan. By coincidence, too, Bryan was Scopes' "boyhood hero," and the "Great Commoner" made the graduating address to Scopes' class in the Salem high school.

Now they are on opposing sides in the "Battle of the Century."

With McAuloo and Hiram Johnson in the senate, other states would have to struggle for the limelight.

A rich man named Browning seeks "a pretty, refined girl, 14 years old, for adoption." He has one adopted daughter and wants another to keep her company. He will give the adopted girl "every opportunity, education, travel, kindness, care, love."

Of course, he will, all perhaps except opportunity. Opportunity to eat, dress, travel and live free of work is not opportunity.

What would Rosa Bonheur have amounted to had a rich man adopted her. Her girl friend painted fruit boxes to buy food for two, while Rosa Bonheur painted pictures that made her famous, and undoubtedly gave her self-sacrificing friend a place in Heaven. Who would have known Rosa Bonheur had a rich man adopted her?

The government will sell great ocean liners that don't pay, including Leviathan. Suppose the richest country in the world would run its ships without extravagant frills, brass bands, etc., and allow school teachers, high school and college students to go to Europe and back at cost, or, better still, free of cost. How much would it be worth to this nation to have 25,000 teachers and young students see and study Europe every year.

But, nothing of that kind could be done. It would be "paternalism." We could hire all the ships the world had for rent and spend $1,000,000,000 building ships that we never used to send 3,000,000 men abroad to help in a killing enterprise.

That is "conservative government."

The National City bank, under the management of C. E. Mitchell, reports new high records, which are amazing; total resources of $1,154,730,350—an increase of more than $50,000,000 in two months—and deposits of more than $910,000,000 in two months.

Other cities, Chicago especially, show enormous increases of bank deposits, the increase of a few Chicago banks exceeding $67,000,000 in the two months. This seems to be a prosperous country.

In Athens, with the government's consent, American scientists will tear down 29 city blocks, to dig and uncover the ancient city of long centuries ago.

Revelations at a depth of not more than 20 feet, according to Prof. Capps, of the Greek department of Princeton, "may revolutionize human ideas."

That will interest not more than one-tenth of one per cent of the human beings now alive but it is interesting all the same.

William McCracken

called Chief of Police McDermott who issued a warrant for his arrest. Police received a tip last night that McCracken was on Pennsylvania avenue near the car barns. Patrolman Chester Smith was sent to East End by Captain Conley where he arrested the suspect.

Taken before Chief McDermott, Captain Conley and Mayor Brown at the city hall, McCracken denied the thefts. When locked up in jail and told he would have to wait until the September term of the grand jury, he confessed to the Green robbery, police said. Later he also admitted the robbery of the Kerr garage and the paint shop, they claim.

Plunder is Recovered.

Captain Conley went to the young man's home in Harker avenue last night where he recovered a suitcase filled with overalls and jackets, men's socks, tobacco, chewing gum and other merchandise alleged to have been stolen from the Green store. He also located under the young man's bed a roll of automobile wrenches and tools, said to have been taken from the Kerr garage. A steel case, which he carried away from the garage, is said to have been secreted near the sewer pipe works, but it was missing when a search was made. Kerr reported to the police this morning that the case had been found by another party who returned it.

McCracken denied any connection with other robberies at the Green store. He said that he entered the store by cutting a hole in one of the door panels with a pen knife. He gained entrance to the Kerr garage through a window, which was unlatched, he told the police.

DAYTON, O., July 9.—A permit has been issued for a Ku Klux Klan parade in Dayton Saturday, when advance announcements say, about 20,000 white-robed figures will be in the line of march.

Pawn Shop Owner Carries Fight Over Gun to High Court

I. H. Aaronson, proprietor of a Diamond pawn shop has asked the common pleas court to reverse a recent decision of Justice of Peace Maud E. Gill, in which he was ordered to pay a $17 judgment.

Several weeks ago James Cox, of this city, pawned a Savage gun with Aaronson, for $2. When Cox attempted to redeem the gun, it was refused. Cox immediately entered suit before Justice Gill to obtain the gun or be reimbursed for the value of the weapon. Justice Gill rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

Aaronson has posted a $100 bond in the case pending a ruling from the higher courts.

W. F. Lones

over, he did not consider prospects any too good.

The next day, hearing that several former East Liverpool people were to ride in Dayton, only a few hours' ride from Chattanooga, he decided to visit the town.

William S. Smith, Maplewood, founder of the Smith Hardware company, of this city, was then engaged in the lumber business in Dayton. Samuel Gettys, who was in the fire insurance business in East Liverpool for several years, occupying office space with an attorney, George S. Wilson, on the second floor of a frame building on the site of the present Heddleston Brothers' grocery store, Fourth street, was also a citizen of the southern town.

The town's only industry then was the Dayton Coal & Iron company. It obtained its iron ore in the hills back of town and also had an abundant coal supply along the Tennessee river, just three miles distant. Business was booming at that time and things looked good to Lones.

He opened up an office in the town, where he made many friends during the next three years. In 1889 he was elected mayor. A year later he was named for a second term.

In the Dayton mills were employed Mexicans and other foreigners. The police were kept busy in an effort to maintain order and each morning Lones would have a half dozen or a dozen offenders facing him for various offenses.

After completing his second term, Lones had an opportunity to return to Wellsville, to take up the practice of P. C. Young, who had been elected probate judge of Columbiana county. He left Dayton in 1891. The Smith family moved to East Liverpool before that time.

Knows Scopes Trial Attorneys.

Three years ago, Lones visited Dayton but the intervening years had wrought a transition from a once thriving community to a quiet country town. The company operating the mills had failed and the plant never resumed operations. A few of the "old timers" who had grown up with the village still remained.

Among Lones' old acquaintances, whom he met upon his return to Dayton was Judge J. G. McKenzie, who was practicing law there when he was mayor, and who will assist in the prosecution in the trial which opens Friday. Attorney W. C. Haggard, who is also assisting in the prosecution, is a younger lawyer, whose family moved to Dayton from Georgia while Lones was residing there. Lones knew the elder Haggard who was in the banking business. Attorneys S. K. Hicks and H. E. Hicks, also counsel for the prosecution, took up the law profession in Dayton after Lones left. He met both brothers upon his visit there.

While Lones was making his home in Dayton, the county seat of Rhea county was moved from Washington. Dayton was growing by such wonderful strides that it was regarded as the logical center of county government. "Dayton's population today consists of people of the very best kind," the attorney said. "The riff-raff class who were employed in the mills have left town and the better class remained. It bears little resemblance to the place I felt when I retired as mayor."

Germany's association of department stores which maintains a central buying organization, now has 4,000 members.

Wellsville Patrol Driver Suspended Following Crash

H. F. Hurd, member of the Wellsville police department, today was suspended, without pay, from his duties as patrolman for a period of 15 days by order of Chief of Police John Fultz as a result of investigation conducted jointly by Chief Fultz and Mayor J. S. Barnes into circumstances surrounding the partial wrecking of the motor patrol in Eighteenth street Monday night.

Patrolman Hurd's suspension period starts tonight. He is charged with reckless driving.

Returning from a police chase after two alleged auto bandits in the west end of the city Monday night Hurd, it is said, was driving the motor patrol back to the police station after he had captured one of the two suspects.

According to the patrolman, he was driving the car rapidly in order that he could jail his prisoner and go back to aid other police in the search. He applied the brakes at a point near the Commerce street intersection, and they grabbed, he said the patrol skidding into a telephone pole.

An investigation of the case was demanded Tuesday night during a session of council by solon William Nicholson, and council called upon the safety department for an immediate probe.

Kiwanis Will Aid

58. At his suggestion the club voted in favor of a county Kiwanis picnic, which will be held at Rock Springs park sometime during August. Each Kiwanis club in the county will be asked to designate one member to work in conjunction with the inter-city relations committee in arranging this picnic.

The attendance prize, four luncheon coupons, good only for consecutive meetings, furnished by J. W. Moore, was awarded to Clarence Howell. C. W. Hengeshot, head of the public affairs committee, made a report on the proposed signs which the club plans to erect along the roads leading into the city.

Frank Jones spoke briefly on the subject, "The Value of Kiwanis Membership." He pointed out that Kiwanis was promoting a spirit of better friendship between the people of the United States and Canada, was encouraging a more friendly feeling between neighboring cities and also a better feeling between individuals.

WORKERS' PARTY MEETING SUNDAY

A mass meeting of local members of the Workers' Party of America will be held in Trades and Labor Council hall at 7:30 o'clock next Sunday evening, when a speaker from the Chicago headquarters will talk on the subject, "Stand by Soviet Russia," and "Hands Off China."

The meeting was called at the request of C. E. Rutherford, Chicago, national secretary.

MOTHER AND TOT MURDER VICTIMS

NEW YORK, July 9.—A double murder of a mother and a child was discovered by the police here today in the finding of the bodies of Mrs. Marie Blanco, and her 4-year-old daughter, Jane. They were found on the floor of their apartment, 306 East 34th street, both with their throats hacked open.

MATHEWSON "VERY SICK MAN," REPORT

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., July 9.—Despite reports to the contrary Christy Mathewson is "a very sick man," according to Dr. E. N. Packard, his physician, today. Dr. Packard described his condition as a recurrence of Mathewson's old enemy, tuberculosis, which he contracted during the World war. The big pitcher has been confined to his home for three weeks and has a pronounced fever.

Only one-half the surtaxes in Italy on incomes of $2,000 or more will be collected this year.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 9.—Although there was no pronounced activity in the stock market during early trading today prices generally were slightly higher. Trading in oil stocks, which featured the opening, fell off subsequently and activity was largely confined to rails, motors, industrials, equipment and copper stocks.

United States Steel was active and strong. This stock which closed at 11 1/2 yesterday advanced above 117 this morning. North American company was up 2 to 50 1/2 at the outset.

Fisher Body, which closed at 7 1/2 yesterday, was very active today, advancing to 7 3/4, a new high, the former high being 7 1/2. Buying of much of this stock was prompted by market gossip to the effect that General Motors, which owns 60 per cent of Fisher Body, was buying up other shares in the company.

The activity in copper stocks was a continuation of the movement which started a few days ago. Copper Metal was selling firmly around 14 cents a pound, with many producers unwilling to sell at that price. Leaders in the movement were Kennicott, Cerro de Pasco, Chibul and Anaconda.

Motor stocks were irregular. There seemed to be much profit-taking, as Pierce Arrow, Packard and other of the lower priced stocks, which were active of late, were fractionally lower. Timken Roller bearing was active, leading in the motor accessories division, selling at 4 1/2 at one stage this morning. Up nearly two points from yesterday's low, Kelly Springfield and Goodrich were slightly irregular. General Motors and Yellow Cab were unchanged.

Specialty stocks were generally strong, with advances of a point or more in Weston Electrical Instrument, Certified Products, Colorado Fuel and Barnet Leather.

Call money was unchanged at 3 1/2.

HARPER DENIES MIS TREATMENT

Welfare Director Avers Davis Boy's Death Was Natural.

Documentary evidence showing that Ralph Davis, 15, of Fourteenth street, Wellsville, died at the Lancaster boys' industrial school as a result of natural causes and not from mistreatment can be produced for any body of investigators, according to State Welfare Director John E. Harper, in reply today to Wellsville city council's demands, based on community protest, that Governor Donahey launch an immediate investigation.

In the meantime, City Clerk George S. Hardman, who Tuesday night telegraphed to Governor Donahey at the request of council, has failed to receive direct reply from the capitol, although it is understood that Governor Donahey will ask city council to appoint a committee of its own to investigate. This committee would, at the close of its investigation, report its findings to the state executive, who then would decide on the ensuing course of action.

According to dispatches from Columbus, it is also understood that Governor Donahey has expressed himself as being willing to order an inquiry if Wellsville city council does not care to name a committee to act.

Superintendent A. M. Buescher, of the boys' school, declares that the boy's death was due to entirely natural causes following an illness that produced perforation of the intestinal tract. He said the boy had never been whipped, and that at the time of his death an investigation was made.

"At that time," the director declared, "this department heard that there were rumors afloat and we made an investigation. The coroner's report shows he died of natural causes."

"Affidavits of other physicians, of attendants and inmates at the school also showed there was nothing irregular. These documents, sworn to by them, are in my office and are open for inspection."

Supt. Buescher declared he had attempted to "trace every movement of the boy and of the attendants in the department where he was located, and can find no evidence of ill-treatment."

"Probate Judge Riddle, who sentenced the boy, came here himself in search of the facts and returned to Lisbon satisfied," the Superintendent stated.

D. P. Davis, the father of the boy, requested an autopsy after the body had been returned to Wellsville. Photographs of it, said to show discoloration and welts are to be sent to the governor.

According to information in possession of Director Harper, the discoloration was caused by hot water bottles which were not removed from the body until after the death of the boy. This information is that they were removed by the undertaker, who, at that time, made a note of the discoloration.

AUTO PLUNGES OVER HILLSIDE

An East Liverpool motorist, whose name could not be learned, was bruised about the chest when the automobile he was driving plunged over a 15-foot embankment on the roadside a short distance from the Fred Dando brick works yesterday afternoon.

The accident occurred when the driver, headed toward Wellsville, attempted to pass another car in front of him. The left wheels of his car slid over the edge of the road and the machine a moment later dropped down the declivity.

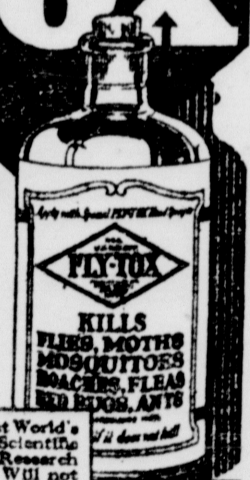

Accompanied by Joseph McKenna, the autoist was brought into the office of Dr. J. S. McLaughlin by Fred Dando. After his injuries were given attention he was able to continue to East Liverpool.

On With The Scopes Trial

It is just as well that the federal courts have refused to interfere in the Tennessee evolution case and prevent a trial of John T. Scopes on grounds of unconstitutionality.

Surely the town of Dayton, after all its efforts to get into the national klieglights, has a moral right to further publicity. And there was no use cluttering up an already complicated case with a row about state rights. The commonwealth of Tennessee, as well as the town of Dayton, has its pride in this matter—also is responsibility.

So the case will be fought through along the lines drawn. If it is really contrary to the Constitution of the United States for a legislature to forbid specific teaching of scientific theories, or anything else, in its schools and colleges, that fact will be arrived at in due time, as the case moves on to the court of last appeal.

Meanwhile the big show will open Friday, and the national public will look in and listen in upon a proceeding such as most of the educated folk of this day never expected to find outside of the pages of medieval history.

Postoffice a Storage Plant

The public has a chance to help the government save a large chunk of the public money if it wishes. Last year, it is reported, the United States postoffice sustained the expense of storage for six months each on 300,000 parcels ultimately found undeliverable. Sometimes there is a dispute between sender and addressee which postpones the delivery of a parcel, and during the period of delay Uncle Sam holds the package and provides free storage for it. But most often the cause of this costly delay of mail lies entirely with the sender who fails to address the package properly.

The postoffice proposes to remedy this evil. Beginning August 1, mailers of parcels will be required to guarantee return postage on all non-deliverable packages. If any sender refuses to assume this obligation he will automatically forfeit all claim to the parcel, which will be put up at auction along with other unclaimed articles.

This is a wholly reasonable step on the part of the postoffice. It will accomplish several desirable ends, such as saving public money, lessening losses of mailed articles, encouraging greater accuracy in addressing mail and speeding up the handling of such parcels. Perhaps, too, the saving effected will have a beneficial influence upon the incomes of postal clerks and letter carriers.

A Museum Of Fashions

Something new in museums is to be established in Paris. For some time that city has been having a fashion exposition in connection with its annual art salons. These exhibitions have been so successful that they have suggested the idea of a permanent museum devoted entirely to the history of fashion.

The municipal council is expected to appropriate funds for the creation and upkeep of the museum. Trade organizations and business houses will be asked to subscribe.

There will be examples of successive fashions in dress through the ages and a complete collection of fashion journals, drawings and designs by fashion artists.

Perhaps mere fashions in themselves do not deserve as much attention and serious study. But fashions as they reflect different periods in civilization and suggest different times and manners and recent progress toward more healthful and sensible clothing and habits will have interest for many different classes of people, from the sociologist and artist to the hygienist. Undoubtedly, too, some of the fashions displayed in this museum can serve always as horrible examples of how never again to dress.

Most-Needed Inventions

Some one recently wrote to a newspaper question department to ask what are the greatest inventions yet to be made. No less a person than Hudson Maxim gives the answer.

The greatest invention yet to be made, he says, is a method of government whereby the common people may be made self-governing and at the same time be prevented from committing political and social suicide through enfranchisement ignorance and avarice. This is a rather large order and one which most persons would expect to have filled only by means of a long process of education and intellectual development.

The next things the famous inventor suggests as being greatly needed are a method utilizing inter-atomic energy for power and heat and a method of transmitting dynamic energy by wireless, so that from a central source motors may be run hundreds and thousands of miles away. These, also, are large orders, but there have already been scientific foreshadowings of a day when they will be found among the practical achievements. Still another suggested need is a simple device by which deaf people may hear.

Perhaps these things are no more difficult or impossible than other marvels which have long since become commonplace. At least they are thought-provoking.

Italy, which is nothing if not gallant to its womenfolk, has generously given them the right to fight in the next war.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 9.—Philadelphia Kitty has followed Doc Shuffield up the stony trail. Each ministered to the poor of the Bowery and Chinatown without pay or hope of reward. They were not reformers. They were friends of the friendless.

Doc Shuffield was a fellow of a royal surgical society who lost all through drink save love for humanity. His fine, prominent nose was shot with tiny red veins and his face usually revealed a three day growth, but he clung to his battered silk hat and greasy frock coat.

The sick never called on Doc in vain and there is no record of him ever charging the poor a fee. His accent was British and his manners impeccable. The bleary-eyed bums and sets respected him and shrank into corners when he appeared in the five-cent-a-shot barrell houses of other days.

Doc contracted pneumonia struggling in a snow to reach a patient and the thin hold he had on life quickly slipped. Philadelphia Kitty was a silver haired woman of 60. "Her people were folks," they said of her along the Bowery, but she never talked of herself.

She was not trying to lead people from the gutter to God. Where ever she found them she merely tried to spread happiness. If they wanted to lead better lives it was their business, not hers, although their reformation always made her happy.

She battled the incongruities of life with a smile, handclasp and kind word. She came unheeded to the squalor of the Bowery 40 years ago. It was the days when the neighborhood was filled with the painted women and predatory libertines of those unenlightened days.

There were tong wars, fan-tan parlors, white slavery and nightly blood-gonings. One night Kitty walked in to McGurk's Suicide Hall after midnight. The rowdiness simmered to a hum. She stood up and said quietly: "Let's all take one night off and go home and write a few letters home." In ten minutes the place was deserted.

Broadway is trying to trace the birthplace of that cooling summer drink now banned, the Tom Collins. Some say it was made at the suggestion of a visiting Englishman at the old Belleaire bar. But that was in the early 80's and an old timer remembers having a long Tom in Montreal in 1913. There was a Tom Collins in Charles Lamb's time who was a barman in Conduit Square. He fashioned many drinks and it may have been named in his honor.

Incidentally there are many dishes named after celebrities on New York menus. The Ritz has a Mary Pickford Salad, Reuben's has an S. J. Kaufman Special Sandwich, Pierre's a Peach Farrar. Voisin's a toast Hergesheimer, the Colony Club fruit coupe a la Bartholomew, the Biltmore a desert a la Billie Burke and of course there are the old stand-bys—Pear Melba and canteloupe Lillian Russell.

Canteloupe Lillian Russell, which is ice cream in canteloupe, dates back to the Wehrfritz days when Miss Russell was in the full pomp of her fame. She used to go to the Waldorf after the theatre and order this dish which was her own invention. One evening imperious Oscar strolled by, stopped and saw the delicacy. "Today," he said, "a famous dessert is born." The next day it appeared on the menus and is known all over the world. Even the famous Parisian cuisiniers have copied it—name and all.

I have neglected the best dish of all at Dinty Moore's near the Globe theatre. It is corn beef and—George McManis. This dish, by the by, has been voted the favorite of New Yorkers in a contest started by the Restaurant association. Corned Beef Hash should be in the running. HASKIN'S LETTER

Progress in Standardization.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Ever since Herbert Hoover has been Secretary of Commerce he had advocated the elimination of waste in industry through standardization. He has felt that the standard of living for the American people might well be raised if they could be persuaded to buy standard articles instead of novelties. It is possible for a manufacturer to sell at a considerably lower figure a standard article which may be the result of mass production. The manufacturers and distributors in large part are in favor of cooperation for simplification and standardization. It is estimated that already the saving through such cooperation runs into millions of dollars.

In many industries there have been many styles and types of articles made that had no general appeal whatever. These would accumulate on to Chicago for a three weeks' visit. Wilbert Jackson of Orchard Grove avenue is the guest of friends in Richmond, Va.

Miss Anna Rutherford has returned to her home after a week's visit in Canton, where she attended the wedding of her sister, Miss Lulu Rutherford, and Robert Denis.

Mrs. A. G. Bentley and children have concluded a month's visit with Mrs. Herbert Goodwin of Avondale street, and returned to their home in Detroit, Mich.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Harrison are spending ten days in Atlantic City.

TEN YEARS AGO.

July 9, 1915.
Miss Marjorie Hilbert returned Saturday after a six weeks' visit in Philadelphia, Cape May and Atlantic City. The sixth birthday anniversary of Cecil Arthur Williams was observed recently, when his mother, Mrs. Arthur Williams, entertained a group of little folks.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith and Miss Eva Rose of West Fourth street witnessed the ordination of Victor A. Smith, formerly of this city, who is pastor of the Episcopal church at Co-shooton.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Adams have returned home, after a three weeks' honeymoon. The bride was formerly Miss Riley of Chester.

Misses Dora Kinsey, Margaret and Mervyle Birch and Bessie Robinson are students for the summer at Kent Normal school.

the shelves of the merchants and eventually in order to get rid of them they would be obliged to sell them at a great reduction.

Here is a point that the department wishes to bring to the attention of the public. The merchant must make a profit on his entire stock, and if he is obliged to sacrifice on one line he must make it up on another. Consequently in the last analysis the ultimate consumer pays. He may get a bargain on a particular purchase, but the next time he buys a standard article, part of the loss incurred in the first sale is absorbed in the price of the second article.

Manufacturers are making studies of the number of styles which carry the bulk of their business. A manufacturer of men's felt hats found that 50 per cent of the business on 2081 styles and colors was done in seven styles and ten colors. He consequently simplified his line and has become a staunch advocate of simplification.

A manufacturer of shoes simplified his line from three grades and 2,500 styles to one grade and 100 styles. Right here the department hastens to say that this does not signify that the manufacturers of women's shoes are planning to curb millady's desire for fancy footwear. The manufacturers will continue to make novelty shoes for the feminine sex. The idea is to make also a standard line which may be sold at a lower price, so that a woman may if she so desires get shoes of standard quality at reasonable cost.

Since there is apt to be a loss in the novelty shoes, the profit must be carried by the standard, and thus the price of the standard is necessarily higher than would be the case otherwise.

Men Like Standard Shoes.

Some manufacturers are doing away entirely with the novelty and confining themselves to the standard. It is much easier to reduce the line of styles of men's shoes because as a rule a man, once he finds a shoe which is comfortable, is apt to stick to it. One man says he has been wearing the same make and style shoe for twenty years.

In a great many lines of manufacture the number of varieties has been reduced. Some of the notable examples where there was an unnecessary number of varieties from which to select are vitrified paving brick, reduced from 66 to 4; beds, springs and mattresses, 78 to 4; hotel chinaware, 700 to 100; files and raps, 1351 to 455; common brick, 44 to 1; woven fire fence packages, 2072 to 138; hospital beds, 33 to 1; and loaded shells 4076 to 1758. It was discovered that in the last named there were probably more varieties of loaded shells than there were species of birds to kill. The variety of sizes of bed blankets was reduced from 78 to 12.

Many of these changes make it easier not only for the manufacturer but also for the householder. Certainly it would be a relief to be able to go to a shop and ask for a single size sheet and be sure of just what the measurements would be. As it is, there appears to be no standard for such. Making beds a standard size and bed clothing to correspond would undoubtedly simplify matters for the purchaser and reduce the merchants' likelihood of having unsalable stock left on his hands. This same idea applies in many other commodities.

Many have voiced criticism of this policy of standardization. One well known educator made a particularly strong protest, saying that it would handicap progress. Advocates reply that this not so—that it is not the intention of the plan to curb progress in any way. No effort is to be made to discontinue the manufacture of the specialty or novelty product. It is simply to do away with expending effort and time on that which experience has shown is salable to only a very minor percentage of the trade. Its aim is to give the consumer the best possible value for his money. By mass production and simplified practice it is possible for the manufacturer to make a better grade of product for less money, and this reduction in turn is passed along to the consumer.

It is also pointed out that this same educator has practically standardized literature. He has made a selection of books which he considers representative of American literature at its best and these are sold in one lot. By manufacturing these in mass it has been possible to make a price within the reach of the average citizen. Thus he has helped many to become familiar with the best in books who would otherwise not have known what books to read and who also probably could not have afforded to buy them by single copies. In this he has done a big thing.

It is further noted, however, that while this professor criticizes standardization along other lines on the score that it impedes progress, he has made no provision for an increase in the size of his list of representative books. There is no room for any books which may have been written since and which may merit a place with those he recommends.

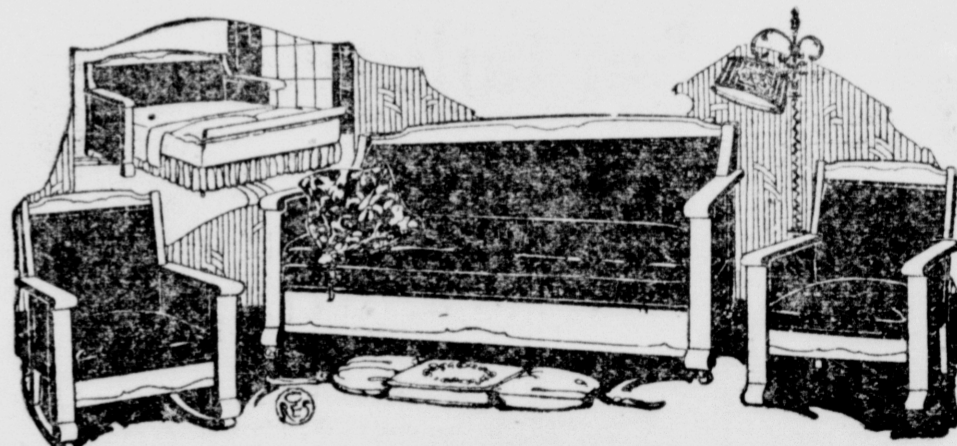

To other criticism that standardization makes it impossible for the individual to express his personality or his tastes, the department of Commerce says that the use of standard materials does not necessarily suppress individualism. The fact that a man uses standard brick does not mean that his house must be exactly like those of all of his neighbors who use the same. His individual taste may be expressed by the architecture—the manner in which this material is used.

This same idea may be applied to a standard grade of material such as blue serge. Individualism is not expressed so much in the grade, or weave of the material as in the tailoring.

The manufacturers and distributors of the country are coming more and more to a full appreciation of the effort the government is making to assist them in putting their business on a sound economical basis. Secretary Hoover's policy of putting the government behind business rather than in business has had a decided influence upon business generally and the department's program of simplification is rapidly being accepted as a real contribution of government to industry. This is eliminating the old distrust of any suggestions the government might make concerning business.

THERE is no reason today for holding your breath while you wait to see if your jam or jelly is going to set.

When you use Certo there is not the slightest chance of failure.

For Certo is itself the element that makes fruit jelly—taken from the fruits that are richest in it. Some fruits never have this jellifying property; in all fruits it grows less as they ripen. So you've often had bad luck before with fully ripe fruit.

But good luck is sure every time when you add Certo. You can use the luscious ripe fruits now.

And you only need to boil the fruit one minute. Think how much time Certo saves you.

Think how much fruit juice it saves you, too, that used to boil away during the long old-fashioned "boiling down." With Certo you make half again as many glasses from your fruit.

Order Certo today from your grocer. A booklet with each bottle gives nearly 100 recipes for delicious jams, jellies and marmalades. Douglas-Pectin Corp., Granite Bldg., Rochester, N. Y.

Great thirst mystery and the two drinks that solved it!

The mystery of thirst is how to quench it—and here's the way that you can solve the mystery. Uncap a bottle of Clicquot Club Ginger Ale. Pour out the ice-chilled, ginger-warmed, bubbling drink. That's the fine, full-flavored beverage that, forty years ago, first taught America what real ginger ale tastes like. Perhaps you like a milder drink, one that is smooth and subtle, delicate and exhilarating? Then you'll like Clicquot Club Pale Dry, the dry ginger ale that really tastes like ginger ale. What makes Clicquot Club Ginger Ale—Regular or Pale Dry—the finest, tastiest, most refreshing drink you ever tasted is one unpatented, but uncopyable, formula. That is the forty years of knowing how to make good ginger ale right. It is sealed into every full pint bottle of Clicquot Club Ginger Ale that you buy. The Clicquot Club Company, Millis, Mass., U. S. A.

STUDEBAKER Special Six Coach

Why Call It a Coach?

THEY couldn't understand! "Why call it a coach—why confuse it with cheap closed cars?" asked the dealers at a recent Studebaker meeting. "Surely it would be better to name it the Special Six Coupe."

To be sure, the Special Six Coach is upholstered in fine quality of material—with high-grade carpeting—and heavy decorative door pulls to assist passengers in alighting.

To be sure, it is lacquer finished in two styles—beautiful Studebaker blue or a rich duotone finish of Wyandotte green-gray above and Ponca green-gray below.

And, furthermore, to get a coach as large and roomy you must pay more than $1,000 above the price of this car.

But the fact remains—that it carries the lowest price at which a fine closed car has ever been sold on the world-famous Special Six chassis.

It is a coach—in price alone. But in quality—a fine type of five-passenger coupe.

From the very beginning, the coach has been an effort towards economy on the part of automobile manufacturers. But, unlike other manufacturers, Studebaker has been able to build a coach without sacrifice in essential quality—and offer it to you at an accepted coach price.

The reason for sedan quality at coach price

Studebaker builds all of its own closed bodies—builds finer coaches than have been built before—and builds them at a lower cost—because there is no outside body-maker's profit to be included in the purchase price to you.

This Special Six Coach is built complete—both body and chassis—in Studebaker plants. It is a "one-profit" automobile.

CERAMIC MOTOR CO.

In buying a closed car, do not underestimate the importance of engine and chassis. With extra weight to carry, these units become increasingly vital.

Plus—the Special Six Chassis

This fine coach body is especially designed for and mounted on the Special Six chassis which has contributed to the splendid reputation of Studebaker cars for dependability, endurance and reserve mileage.

Definite records show that many Studebakers have delivered from 125,000 to 200,000 miles of service. Up in the rugged country around Three Rivers, Quebec, there are eight Studebaker cars that have each traveled 100,000 miles or more.

In Stockton, Calif., one Studebaker car has piled up 138,000 miles over steep mountain grades and rough country roads with negligible upkeep—not a single major part has been purchased or repaired by reason of wear or accident.

So do not buy this Special Six Coach with the expectation that you'll have to trade it in at the end of a year or so. Instead, consider this your permanent investment in transportation. At the mileage when other cars are breaking up, this Studebaker Special Six Coach will just be breaking in.

Buy now—no need to delay

You may buy this Studebaker Special Six Coach today—or on any day of the year—with the confident assurance that no act of ours will stigmatize it as a "last year's model."

For Studebaker has discontinued the custom of presenting a new line of cars each year. Instead Studebaker will keep up-to-date all of the time—introducing new improvements and refinements as their merit is proved through practical use.

STRIKING COAL MINERS FREED

Released on Promise to Refrain From Picketing Mines.

Pledging that they will refrain from picketing about the mines in Marshall county, in violation of court injunctions, a score of miners arraigned before Judge P. D. Morris on charges of contempt of court were given their freedom yesterday.

Officers of the miners' union present in court also agreed that the picketing will cease, as there is no desire on their part to have the union men violate the laws, they said.

Captain A. L. Hooten, chief counsel for the plaintiff company, the Mineral State Coal company, told the court that he had no desire to push the cases further if an agreement could be secured to show that the provisions of the court orders would be met. This detail was quickly overcome, and Judge Morris ruled that none of the defendants would be required to give bond for further appearance.

However, seven of the defendants were adjudged guilty, and must appear at the next term of court in Mountsville, released on their own recognizance until that time. They were: Charles Nobbitt, Edward Gallagher, Charles Thompson, J. S. Doty, Bernard Graham, Henry Doty, Leo Vitek.

Charges were dismissed against the following: E. Fallett, Louis Machine, Charles Kisko, Theodore Mudrovich, Charles Rice, David Bonar, Sam Budavich, Paul Nieratko, William Bonor, Gus Gentis, Alex Moski, Jack Factor and Joe Shoba.

The four men found guilty Tuesday and sentenced to pay fines of $100 and serve 60 days each in the county jail, must serve the sentences imposed, the court ruled.

CHESTER TO MEET HOMER LAUGHLIN

Chester baseball team which won the first half of the Industrial league championship, opens the second half tomorrow night on the fifth street diamond, meeting Homer Laughlin China squad of Newell. Manager Riley will probably use Cebula in this game, while either Thomas or Reese will hurl for Barney Brice's team. Laughlin has been strengthened during the idle period and several new faces will be seen when the team takes the field here. "Dutch" Lysie, former star hurler of the Toronto team, has been added to the pitching corps of the Potters and will be ready to take his turn on the mound next week. Chester will take the field with practically the same players that finished out in front during the first half.

BOY'S BODY TAKEN FROM OHIO RIVER

Buffeted by vagrant under currents for more than 48 hours, the body of Clarence Auten, 11, drowned near Wellsburg, Monday afternoon, was given up late yesterday afternoon by Ohio river and was pulled from the water by Charles Fulmer and Charles Brost at the head of the upper Sisters Island.

The find was made while Fulmer and Brost, living at the Central fishing camp near Power, W. Va., were crossing the river in a boat. The remains were towed ashore and Coroner R. G. Tobbs was summoned. He viewed the body and rendered a verdict of death by drowning.

The parents Mr. and Mrs. Earl Auten, of Windsor Heights, were notified, and during the evening came to the fishing camp, identified the body as that of their son, and arranged for its removal to Wellsburg. Besides his parents, the victim is survived by several brothers and sisters.

Heavy Rain Comes as Boon to Farmers' Crops

Chicago—Farmers and truck gardeners were smiling after the welcome and profitable downpour, agricultural experts declare. The rainfall, measured by the weather bureau, was 1.5 inches and was the greatest impetus to the hundreds of acres of late field and garden crops which have been planted in the last ten days, according to agricultural reports.

NEWS FROM TOWNS IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

LISBON
REPORT FILED
BY RECORDER

Fewer Leases and Deeds
Handled Than in Previous Year.

The annual report of County Recorder Myrie Stoffel, which was certified Wednesday, discloses that the office handled fewer deeds and leases than during the fiscal year of 1924, and also that fewer mortgages were cancelled. In the latter instance, however, the report shows that the mortgages cancelled during the current fiscal year represented a value of $628,132.04 greater than the cancellations of a year ago.

However, where 261 farm mortgages were cancelled in 1924 valued at $526,512.51 there were 311 farm mortgages cancelled during the last fiscal year representing a value of $609,200.18.

The report shows that in 1924 there were 1,705 mortgages cancelled on city, town and village lots, representing a value of $3,119,544.58 and the current report shows that only 1,597 such instruments were cancelled, representing a value of $3,703,988.35.

In all, during 1924 there were 1,956 mortgages cancelled representing a value of $3,676,056.49, and the 1925 report shows 1,908 mortgages cancelled, representing a value of $4,304,188.53.

During the fiscal year of 1924 there were 3,499 deeds recorded representing a total valuation of $5,015,485.39 but in the fiscal year of 1925 this business declined to 3,096 instruments, or 401 less than the previous report, and representing a valuation of $3,836,927.56.

This section of the report shows there were 332 deeds recorded for farm lands, representing 8,614.93 acres, the average price per acre being listed at $77.24.

With 114 leases being filed during the last year, or 42 less than during the term of the fiscal report of 1924, the consideration involved in the leases totals $415,705, as against $1,121,578 represented in the 156 leases recorded during the fiscal year of 1921.

During the last fiscal year only 53 leases on mineral oil and other lands were recorded, covering 4,080.24 acres, the consideration being placed at $1 per lease. There were 61 leases on city, town and village lots recorded during the last year, the consideration mentioned in these instruments being placed at $415,652.

There were recorded 357 farm mortgages during the last year, covering 16,575.49 acres, and the value represented at $3,157,976.72. During the last year there was recorded 2,078 mortgages on city, town and village lots valued at $4,950,880.90.

The decline in the recording of instruments in the office of the county recorder is claimed to be due solely to the fact that business conditions generally speaking, held back the buying and selling and also leasing of properties.

Chattel mortgage business continues as active as ever if not more so, and this section of the business of the office is equal to that of former years.

CATTLE BREEDERS
ELECT OFFICERS

At a meeting of the Holstein Breeders association held in the office of the county farm bureau, Ed Canfield of East Palestine was elected president and Harry Chadwick of the Firestone farm, Cox highway, was elected secretary-treasurer.

The association has arranged to have its annual outing this year August 13 at the Firestone farm, although this date may be changed.

There will be a judging demonstration during the outing and a representative of the State Holstein association is expected to address the gathering.

TWO DANCING
PERMITS ISSUED

But two owners of dance halls have appeared before Probate Judge Lodge seeking permits under a new law which became effective June 10. These are P. A. Kelly, operating Kelly's park on the Leontonia-Columbiana road, and William A. Powell, in charge of Lincoln Gardens on the Lincoln highway near Brown's bridge.

In the former case a permanent permit has been granted by the court, but in the case of the Lincoln Gardens a permit for five nights only has been issued.

Owners of several other dancing places have written the court for permits, but unless these applicants appear before the court in person, no permits will be issued.

The court insists that a series of questions be answered and this information will be kept on file for the future reference of the court.

Action Filed.

The First National Bank of East Palestine, through its counsel Walter W. Beck, of Lisbon, has filed a petition in common pleas court against F. C. Kinnear for a money judgment, foreclosure and equitable relief. The plaintiff claims there is due on notes secured by mortgage on certain lands a total of $7,571.19.

To Pay Freight.

The County Commissioners have made an agreement with the trustees of Centre township to pay half the freight on six cars of slag to be used on the Logtown road, extending from the east end of the Canton bridge north to the Teegarden road. The slag will be spread over the road by property owners.

A marriage license has been issued to Percy Bowdler and Miss Eleanor Canavan, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Canavan of East Liverpool. They are to be married by the Rev. Walsh of East Liverpool.

Clarence McLean and Miss Edna Pelton, both of Salineville, have obtained a marriage license. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Christian church by the Rev. J. M. Bennett.

Pouring Concrete.
Allison and Harris, contractors of East Liverpool, who have the contract for improving a mile of the East Palestine-Negley road have begun to pour concrete and in the opinion of County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, the job will be finished within three weeks.

Case Appealed.
Wilbert A. Husted, against whom a judgment for $50 and costs was returned following a trial in the court of Justice of the Peace M. E. Gill, of East Liverpool, in a case filed against him by Fanny Harvey, has appealed to common pleas, his bond of $200 being signed by William F. Johnson.

Industrial League Clubs Resume Hostilities This Afternoon

Three Clashes This Week Will Usher in Second Half Battle

Trotters and Babcock Wilcox Clubs Will Tilt Lid in First Skirmish Tonight at Klondkye; Two More Encounters are Slated for Friday; Teams Add Strength During July 4 Intermission.

THREE contests scheduled for the present week will mark the resumption of hostilities in the second half of the City Industrial League season.

Frank Riley's Chester nine, having copped the bunting for the opening section of the schedule, is out to win again and is fairly reeking with confidence that the club will again turn the trick.

Five other clubs are firm in the belief that the West Virginians will not repeat.

Practically all the teams of the circuit have strengthened their rosters during the brief Fourth of July intermission. Particularly is this true of the Wellsville C. & P. Railroad outfit and the Babcock & Wilcox aggregation.

The Wellsville tossers did the unexpected in defeating the champion Chester crew in the final tilt of the first half.

With Bill Mundy, Ray Buzzard and the veteran Pete Eck on deck the Klondkye contingent expects to land higher in the race than it did last week.

K. T. K. Laughlin and Trotter are considered by many as leading contenders for the flag in the windup half. Wellsville and B. & W. expect to be in the fight all the way. As a result, league fans may reasonably anticipate a hectic struggle.

The schedule for the week follows: Tonight—Trotter and B. & W. at Klondkye.

Friday—Laughlin at Chester; K. T. & K. at Wellsville.

PIPP REPORTED TO BE IMPROVING

NEW YORK, July 9.—Although still confined to St. Vincent's hospital with a slight brain concussion, Wally Pipp, veteran Yankee infielder, was said today to be steadily improving and probably will be able to leave the institution next week. Pipp was hit behind the ear with a pitched ball in batting practice more than a week ago.

Last Night's Fights

Cleveland—Pete Sarmineto, Filipino boxer, outpointed Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, World's bantamweight champion, ten rounds. Johnny Drew, Boston, won from Johnny Datto, of Manila, ten rounds. Gaston Charles, France, won from Johnny Moore, Canton, six rounds.

Heilmann hit two homers and the Tigers hit two chins, both of which belonged to the Red Sox. Scores 5 to 0 and 8 to 2.

The Braves were stopped by Mails, after winning five straight, the left handed gem holding them scoreless until the final inning, 5 to 4. The Braves got sixteen hits.

News of the Week Cut Down for Busy Readers

Washington—

Injunction proceedings brought by Dan A. Sutherland, delegate to congress from Alaska, against Secretary Hoover to prevent alleged interference with Alaska salmon fishermen were dismissed at Washington for want of prosecution.

Tagging The Bases

Proof that another old landmark is passing—passing almost beyond the view of the rest of the field—was given when Coveleskie won his eleventh victory of the season in pitching the Senators to a 10 to 2 decision over the White Sox. The poor, old relic was a good guy when he had it.

Our Mr. Ruth's seventh homer of the season added and abetted the Yankees in gaining a 5 to 4 victory over the Browns. Hoyt's relief pitching in the last two innings saving the situation.

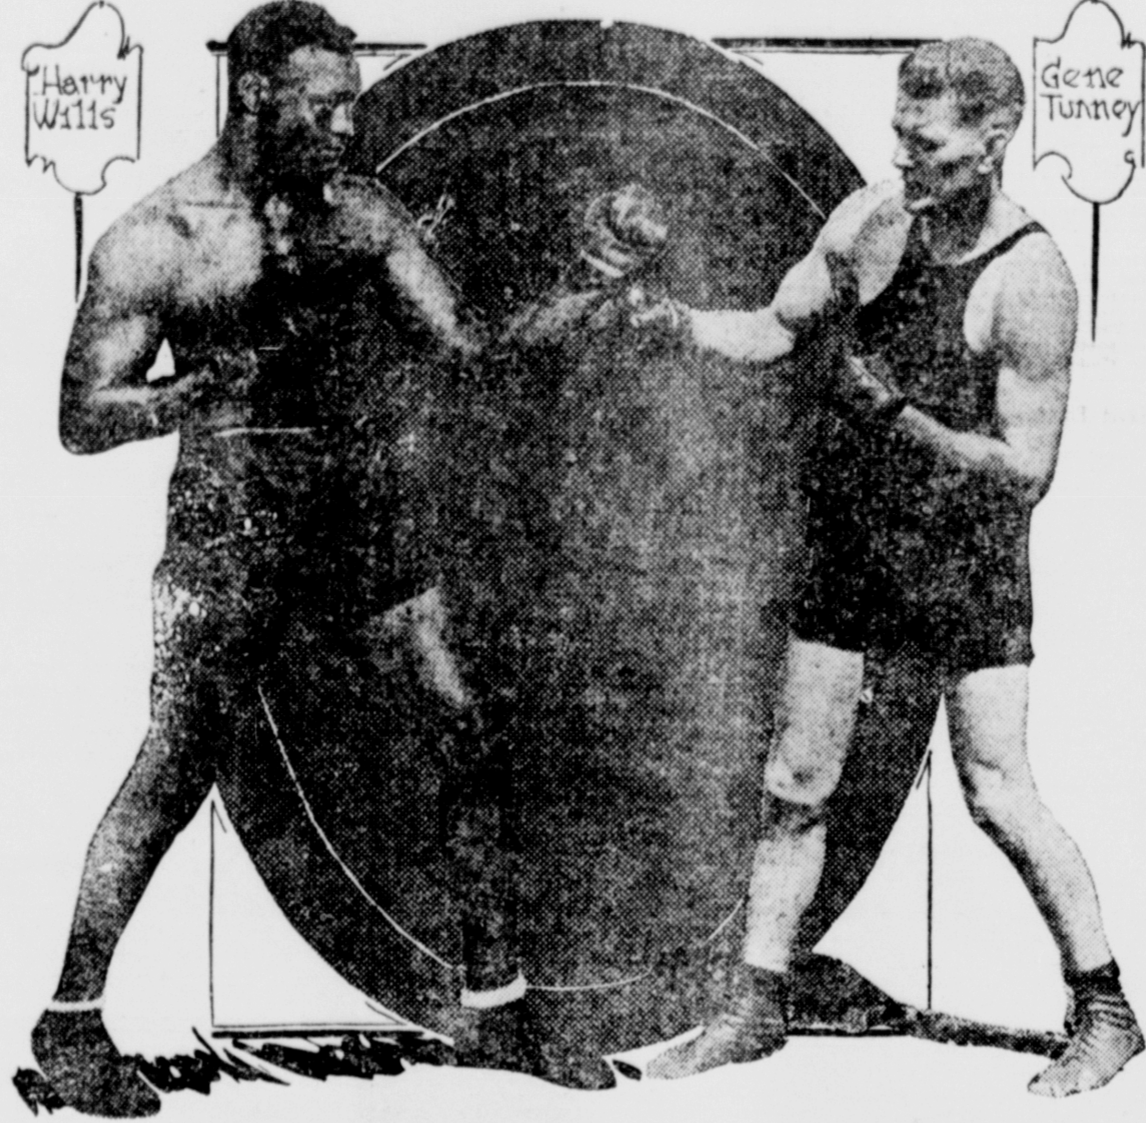

In one hectic inning, the fifth, the Indians scored ten runs off Heilmann and Baumgartner and won the first of two games from the Athletics, 14 to 3. Then the Macks turned around and won the second, 7 to 5, behind the superior pitching of Rommel.

She Rules the West Again

For the second consecutive year Mrs. S. L. Reinhart of Dallas, Tex., has captured the women's western golf championship. She led her nearest competitor in the recent tourney by six strokes.

Will Tunney and Wills Meet or Dodge Each Other?

Gene Tunney is sitting pretty in the fistie spotlight due to his victory over the much touted Tommy Gibbons. Harry Wills' knockout victory over Charley Weinert has given him a better claim to the right to meet Jack Dempsey. A match between Tunney and Wills is a logical one. Will they meet or take on other comers for a while before risking their newly earned reps?

BASEBALL LOOP ASSET TO CITY

Newell Club Calls for Continued Support of Fans.

SPORT EDITOR, REVIEW-TRIBUNE.
Dear Sir:
The East Liverpool City Baseball League swings into the second half of its schedule today under very favorable circumstances. We say this because, in our opinion, the games during the first half have drawn larger and more enthusiastic crowds of spectators than has been the rule heretofore. Those who have been instrumental in getting the league under way and those who are giving their time to officer the affair are deserving of the commendation of all who are interested in this community. The league is of a real and distinct value, and a decided asset to this community because it furnishes open air recreation and fun for thousands of our citizens who would otherwise have nothing of entertain them and give them an opportunity to profitably while away an hour or so of an evening, two or three times each week. The quality of play this season has been decidedly faster, better teams are in this league, better morale obtains, and the teams are ably handled by men who have been successful in securing good results. When considering this factor, remember that the postponed and forfeited games have been at a minimum. And that CHESTER TEAM—it was a fine thing for local baseball when the folks of that hust-

$5,000 PURSES BRING STARS

Two Rich Events Carded for Randall Today.

NORTH RANDALL, O., July 9.—With two rich purses, each of $5,000, hung up in the summer meat of the Grand circuit here, this afternoon, some of the best horses in the country were to battle it out for first honors. The Ohio 208 trot and the Tavern stake 2:12 trot were the feature events, with a 2:10 trot for a purse of $1,200 also carded.

The Fasig sweepstakes with $1,000 added, for three-year old trotters, was won yesterday by Worthy Harvester, defeating the favorite, Gordon Dillon, and paying backers 27 to 1.

In the 2:12 trot, another long shot, Tennis, won in straight heats, paying backers 34 to 1.

The junior drivers' race went to Czarina Gale, and lucky bettors cashed at 15 to 1.

Norman Grattan, an even money favorite, won the 2:12 pace, which completed the card.

BANTAM CHAMP'S CROWN SHAKEN

CLEVELAND, July 9.—Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, of New York, wears his world's bantamweight crown today only because of the fact that no decision was rendered in his bout with Pete Sarmineto, from the Philippines. In the opinion of those who watched the bout, Sarmineto gave the champion a decisive beating. The seventh was the only one of the ten rounds in which Rosenberg outpointed his opponent. The fight was a clean one throughout, both men battling fiercely.

In the semifinal, Johnny Drew, of Boston, won decisively from Johnny Datto, also a Filipino.

Ask Walker to Tell Why He Wants Shade Bout In California

Commission Calls Champ to Carpet; Blow is Aimed at Kearns, to Force Show-down on Dempsey-Wills Argument.

By Davis J. Walsh.
NEW YORK, July 9.—The series of weekly endurance contests between the New York state athletic commission and John Leo Kearns, eminent collector of rare and well done coins, will be resumed today, with jaunty Jack punch-paralyzed and ready for the count. He has traded haymakers and found that he has given away too much weight.

Today infighting will be centered around the Walker Shade match for the welterweight title, but Dempsey and Wills will remain the abiding issue, and sooner or later either Kearns or the commission will be forced into the open with their hands up.

Kearns is certain to lose today's decision. He must remain in the outer darkness while Walker is summoned on the carpet to explain why he is trying to take his frolic with Shade to Vernon, Calif., when local sentiment declares that the affair will harvest bigger and better dollars here. The proceedings will be exceedingly embarrassing to Kearns.

He is being placed in the position of accepting 50 per cent of a fighter's earnings in order that the latter may manage himself.

A little more of that kind of thing and Kearns will be forced to the inevitable show-down whereby he must either accept Wills' deft on behalf of Dempsey or admit that the latter will not or cannot fight the colored man. In either case, Kearns will be reinstated, pronto, and can proceed with the management of Walker in this locality.

For the commission's part, acceptance of the Wills' challenge may prove something of a backfire. It would be forced then to go through the formality of having something happen to a bout that will not be held now or forever hereafter.

Whereas, if Dempsey can be made to retire officially or Kearns be constrained to throw his heavyweight champion overboard in order to trim ship, great will be the commission's popularity in Harlem and the line of colored voters will form on the left. Actually, the board has no authority, to force Walker to fight Shade in New York. The original agreement was that the commission would be satisfied if Shade's challenge in any state where decisions were legal. Now, it considers its dignity has been flouted by Kearns in signing with a California promoter. The commission's attitude is that a clout is worth a flout in any rate of exchange.

BOLES SHOOT COURSE IN 64

WOOSTER, O., July 9.—L. C. Boles, mentor of the Wooster college athletic teams for the past ten years, is now known as "The Old Master" of the Wooster Country club golf course. Boles won his new title by playing 18 holes in 64.

The Wooster coach accomplished the feat by turning in a 32, a mark never beaten in the course and then repeating the performance. He has played the course in 32 twice before, but always followed with a 36 or 38. The mark of 32 is par for the course and to play it means perfect golf. To do it twice in succession is a real feat and golfers are predicting that it will be many a day before any one equals the Boles' 64.

Stecher Wins Bout.

COLUMBUS, O., July 9.—Joe Stecher, present heavyweight wrestling champion, of Dodge City, Iowa, defeated George Kotsionaros, of Mildred, Montana, in two straight falls here last night, using the scissors hold in both falls. The first was in 55 minutes, the second in four minutes, 45 seconds.

"Nobody can say I wasted my money" --

Peter DePaolo—1925 Indianapolis Race Winner

This statement from the young race driver, who purchased a Buick a week after he wheeled his car to victory at Indianapolis and broke the record of that famous Speedway, sums up the nation-wide opinion of Buick.

For, just as DePaolo recognizes the superiority of valve-in-head engines for the race track and personal use, so too have more than a million everyday motorists recognized the dependability and performance of Buick and the Valve-in-Head type of engine upon which Buick has concentrated for 21 years.

De Paolo bought a new Buick with the motor car expert's discriminating eye for performance, for dependability and genuine value. And his purchase is further evidence of the regard in which Buick is so universally held.

William Vanderbilt's Yacht at Stockholm; Will be Overhauled

STOCKHOLM—In order to get equipped with an new set of Swedish built Polar Diesel engines, William K. Vanderbilt's motor-yacht Ara has just arrived here, after traveling about 3,500 miles across the Atlantic from New York, making the trip under its own power, in sixteen days.

Originally built in France early in the war-time for a highly placed diplomat, the boat was later requisitioned for anti-submarine patrol duty, and in 1922 the vessel was purchased by M. Vanderbilt. Since then it has traveled, in different parts of the world, about 50,000 miles, and the old motors functioned so well that the owner decided to have installed another set of the same type, only faster. Instead of from twelve to thirteen knots, the Ara will in the future, make sixteen, each of the new motors being capable of developing 850 horsepower. They are the largest ever installed by the Flinboda company here, and the work will take about four months.

Stenographers of Argentine prefer typewriters from this country although those from Europe are cheaper.

TURTLE? NO!

This is a sample bedbug that may be found in this section of the state. Should you find them during house cleaning time don't worry, as it is easy to rid them with the use of the New Chemical P. D. Q. (Peaky Devils Quietus).

No matter how large they may be, color or sex or where they came from P. D. Q. will kill them and their eggs as if liquid fire had hit them.

Not an insect powder, no dust or muck; will not injure clothing, and will actually kill Moths, Roaches, Cooties, Bed Bugs, Fleas, etc. And puts an everlasting to the Peaky Devils, as it destroys future generations. Impossible for them to exist with its proper use.

Get from your Druggist's a 35c package; this will make a quart; each package contains a patent sprout to get them in the hard-to-get-at places. P. D. Q. can also be purchased in liquid form in a handy bottle with patent sprout in each package.
